Conservatives Win New Zealand Votes

Prime Minister Holland Returned To Power Over Labor By 14 Seats

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP)—The National (Conservative) Government of Prime Minister Sidney Holland was returned to power tonight with a 14-seat majority over Labor. Complete but unofficial returns tonight gave the National party 47 seats in the new 80-seat single-chamber Parliament and the opposition Labor party 33.

This was a gain of two seats over Holland's old parliamentary majority.

Canada Living Costs Higher Than American

Pattern Reversed Since Last June

OTTAWA (CP)—For years living costs in Canada were a lot lower than they were in the United States. Now, says the Bank of Canada, it's the other way round.

The reversal in the cost-of-living pattern took place in June. Before that the cost-of-living index in the United States was a lot higher than the one in Canada.

In June, says the banks in its monthly statistical summary, the paths of the two indexes crossed. The U.S. index levelled off. The one in Canada kept on climbing. The bank makes a revealing comparison of living costs in the two countries over the 12-month period, July, 1950, to July, 1951. The index in Canada jumped 12 per cent; the one in the U.S. only 9.

In both cases higher food prices provided the main impetus. Here, in brief, is the index level on July 1, with the June 1 level in brackets: Total index, 187.6 (184.1); food, 249.7 (239.8); fuel and lighting, 147.2 (146.2); clothing, 202.9 (202.5); rent, 139.8 (139.8); home furnishings, 197.4 (197.1); miscellaneous, 142.2 (141.0).

Indians Dicker To Sell Uranium

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UP)—Reports that uranium deposits recently reported on the Laguna Indian Reservation are "rich and extensive" were bolstered here today as the Indians dickered with firms interested in developing the rich deposits.

The Laguna strike, which greatly extends the original "Haystack Mountain" find near Grants, N.M., was first reported in April when Joy Sinyella, a Laguna Indian, juggled a piece of rock into a Grants newspaper office.

A Geiger counter chattered the ore's worth.

Indian Service Director Eric Hagberg today gave indications that the deposits may be "huge."

The government held 46 seats before parliament was dissolved last month and labor held 34. Absentee votes, mainly from the Maori electorate which will be counted Monday are not expected to change greatly the over-all total of today's count.

Holland, 58-year-old farmer and business man, and opposition labor leader Walter Nash, 69, both promised tax concessions and lower prices during the campaign. But neither said how the reductions would be achieved.

The Prime Minister, a native New Zealander, maintained that the country wanted his middle-of-the-road policy, allowing more private enterprise. He claimed that labor's Socialist policies nearly bankrupted New Zealand. Nash, an active churchman and labor stalwart for 40 years, blamed the government for rising prices. He was born in England but emigrated to New Zealand at the age of 25.

All government ministers were re-elected.

Speaking after the national victory was assured, Holland said the election showed that the government's handling of a Communist-led waterfront strike was endorsed in an unmistakable manner.

Nash said he was confident labor will triumph eventually because what is true cannot lose.

McElroy Eight Up In Strong Bid For Title

ROYAL OTTAWA GOLF CLUB (CP)—Walter McElroy, 23-year-old golfer from the Shaughnessy Heights Club in Vancouver, had a whopping eight-up lead over Phil Farley of Toronto after 18 holes of their 36-hole final today for the Canadian amateur golf championship.

The morning round was practically a parade for the Vancouver boy, who took the first four holes before Farley, 38-year-old veteran, could get started.

Farley managed to whittle McElroy's lead to two holes at the turn but McElroy shot into the lead again and Farley failed to win a hole on the back nine.

Farley won only the fifth, seventh and ninth, McElroy taking 11 holes. Four holes were halved, three of them on the back nine.

Twice Farley lost holes because of stymies—once he knocked McElroy's ball into the cup in trying to jump the stymie and his own ball went in also. It turned out to be an eagle two for McElroy and a birdie three for Farley.

McElroy had an approximate score of 67 for the morning round, four under par. He was out in a medal 35 par and back in 32 against par 36. Farley's approximate medal was 76.

Hollinger Mine Pay Increased

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP)—The granting of a wage increase, but no check-off of union dues, has ended a seven-week strike by more than 1,000 workers of Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines, Ltd.

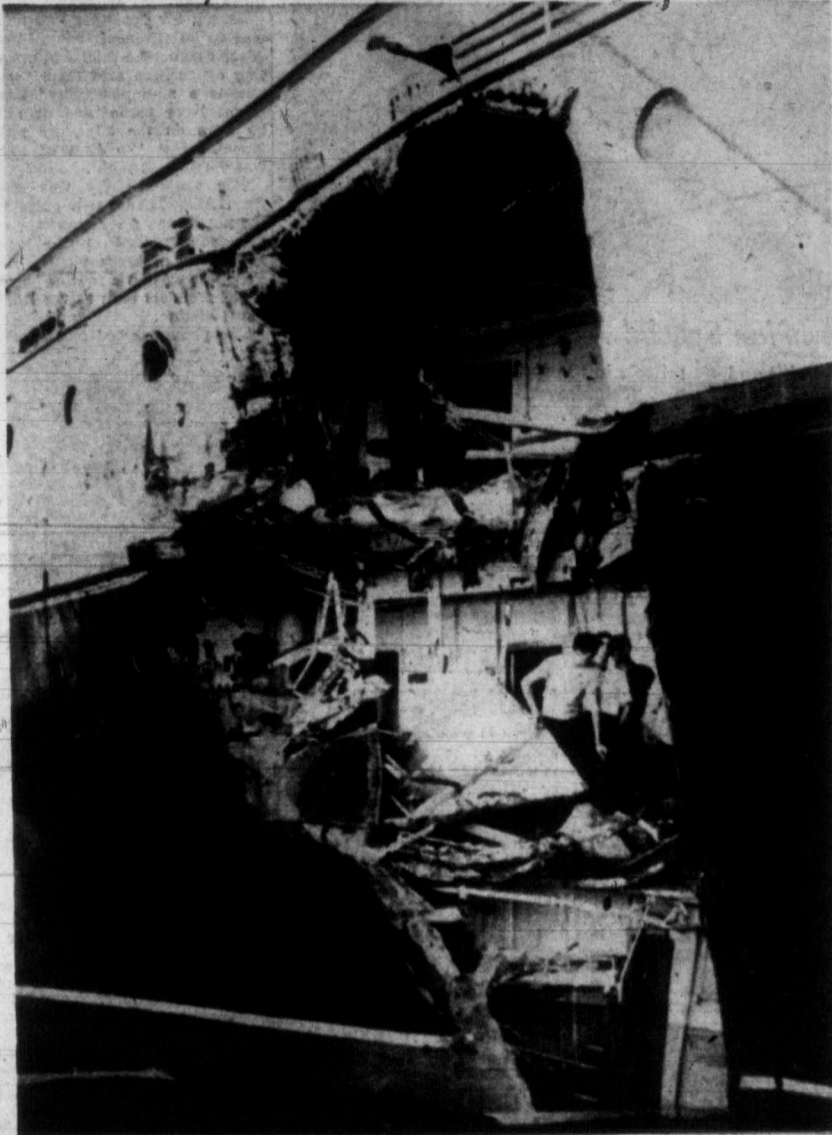

A meeting of upwards of 500 members of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.) last night accepted terms of settlement after four days of talks between representatives of company and union.

The settlement includes a pay boost of 16 cents an hour, three cents of which is a cost-of-living bonus. The union lost out in its effort to have dues collected by a deduction from pay cheques, but it obtained the right for its officials to collect dues on company property.

The return to work is scheduled to start Sept. 4.

Two U.S. Bombers Lost; Barilko Hunt Fruitless

Air Searchers Spread Out Net For Survivors

Compiled From AP, BUP and CP Wires

As a series of aircraft accidents plagued Canadian and Alaskan skies this week past, plane and foot searchers intensified their hunt for possible survivors.

Spurred on by the news from The Pas, Man., that two American fishermen—Dr. John Tasche, Sheboygan, Wis., and Miles Eikenberger, Plymouth, Wis., had been rescued following 29 days marooned in northern Saskatchewan wilderness, searchmaster set up headquarters at North Bay, Ont., to continue the search for missing National Hockey League hockey star, Bill Barilko, and Dr. Henry Hudson, Timmons, Ont., dentist. Barilko and Hudson have been missing since they took off from Rupert House last Sunday for a flight to South Porcupine, Ont.

The search for the two has been switched from the James Bay regions over which 14 planes criss-crossed 27,000 acres yesterday, to northern Quebec. Officials say that strong winds reported by weathermen might have forced the plane into the Rouyn-Noranda area of northern Quebec.

Meanwhile 12 aircraft have been detailed to take off today in search of a plane missing on a flight from Saskatoon to Regina, piloted by 26-year-old Gordon Greenway of Vancouver.

Greenway disappeared Thursday night while making an unauthorized trip from Saskatoon to Regina in a plane belonging to the Canadian Aircraft Company of Regina. He was not employed by the company.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police say they will continue to scour rugged hills and bushland some 50 miles southeast of Saskatoon as the only leads in the hunt for the lost plane are that farmers in the Simpson and Young districts heard a plane in distress Thursday night.

Snatches $10,000

MONTREAL (BUP)—A gunman held up 20 employees of a west end self-serve grocery last night and fled with an estimated $10,000.

GIRL ENTERS SOAP BOX DERBY

Class B soap box racers heading down Yates Street last Monday morning will have one girl to beat—Joan Barlow, of 2523 Asquith Street, the only girl to enter the coasting classic to date.

Her brother, Kenneth, who raced in Class B last year, will race in Class A for the first time Monday in the Knights of Pythias, Wilson Motors and Daily Times-sponsored Vancouver Island championship.

The two little speed artists are the children of Const. and Mrs. J. W. Barlow, and both attend Oaklands School.

'Missing' Two Weeks, U.S. Yawl In Port

NEW YORK (CP)—The yawl Nova Espero docked today in Sandwich Basin, near Cape Cod, Mass., after being reported missing for two weeks.

Stanley Smith and Charles Violett, who piloted the 20-foot craft from Britain to Halifax, said they had no idea that a search had been made for them.

The craft was sighted yesterday by a U.S. Coast Guard plane near Provincetown, Mass., on the first time since leaving Halifax Aug. 17.

The Coast Guard said one of its planes sighted a ship at that location at 4:51 p.m. E.D.T. and dropped a message block to the craft.

The boat's crew obeyed the message instructions, thus identifying the vessel as the Nova Espero. The Coast Guard said the craft started heading toward the Cape Cod Canal.

85 Lives Feared Toll In Alaska's Fateful Flights

Compiled From CP, AP and BUP Wire Services

Word of the loss of a U.S. Navy Privateer plane and 10 crewmen in the Aleutian Islands and report of a U.S. Air Force C-47 missing with four aboard, brings to nine the number of planes crashed over the past six weeks. The toll is 85 dead or feared killed.

The Privateer crashed yesterday 20 miles east of its Adak base. The wreckage was located on Little Tanaga Island. A search party recovered eight bodies. There was no report of survivors.

The C-47 with four aboard was last heard from when it asked permission to fly on instruments at 7,000 feet. Two minutes later the Bethel (Alaska) radio was unable to raise the plane.

The current string of Alaskan air accidents started July 21 when a Canadian Pacific Korean airlift plane disappeared with 38 aboard.

Earth Tremor Rocks Italy's East Slopes

ROME (CP)—People fled in panic from their houses today as an earth tremor shook the eastern slopes of Italy's Apennine range.

Rome Observatory reported that the tremor appeared to have its epicentre in the Gran Sasso Massif, east of Rome, which has already been shaken by five other lighter tremors this month.

The tremor was felt along a 100-mile stretch of Italy's Adriatic coastline.

First reports indicated only minor damage to buildings.

Reds Fight Again

Tearful Eva Turns Down Nomination

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Blond 29-year-old Eva Peron tearfully gave up her chance last night to become the first woman vice-president in the western hemisphere.

The dynamic wife of President Juan D. Peron announced that she could not accept the Peronist party nomination.

Speaking over the radio from the presidential residence, the woman who has guided the country's labor policies, said she had reached an "irrevocable decision" to renounce the high honor of running with her husband in the Nov. 11 election.

It had been reported that her nomination by the Peronist party was opposed by some sections of the army because of the possibility she might become President and commander-in-chief. Even a sizeable group within the Peronista party was said to oppose putting her name on a Peron-Peron ticket—a nomination which virtually would have assured election.

Mrs. Peron stepped aside in favor of white-haired Hortens Quirano, who has been Peronist vice-presidential partner since his election in 1946.

Eva was nominated by the party Aug. 23, after 250,000 pro-government workers and party followers loudly demanded that she and her husband "rule Argentina forever."

Determined To Free Oatis

Truman Pledges Made BRITISH INDIA RUGS Reduced

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman was quoted today as "determined to take whatever measures are necessary" to obtain the release of William Oatis, Associated Press correspondent imprisoned in Czechoslovakia.

The President's sentiment was contained in a reply by Joseph Short, press secretary, to a resolution calling for the release of Oatis. The resolution was passed by the executive board of the Washington professional chapter of the Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity. A copy was sent to Truman Aug. 24.

Short wrote: "The President has asked me to thank the executive board of the Washington professional chapter of Sigma Delta Chi for sending him a copy of your resolution regarding the arrest and conviction of William Oatis."

"The President feels that your resolution is an excellent one. He is determined to take whatever measures are necessary to get Mr. Oatis released."

Truman Insists Attorney Fired

WASHINGTON (UP)—The White House, the Justice Department and U.S. District Attorney Frank C. Bingham were mixed up in a three-way tangle today on the question of whether he was on leave or had abandoned his post.

The White House announced yesterday that President Truman had fired Bingham, who has been U.S. attorney at Nome, Alaska, for 17 years.

The Justice Department reported to Mr. Truman that Bingham had never returned to Alaska after coming here for a conference last May and had "abandoned" his post.

But Bingham was mystified at his home in Missoula, Mont. He said that he was "on an official leave of absence."

Worker's Luck All Bad

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A wasp stung L. C. McCall and buzzed off, disregarding the names McCall called him.

Sam Coleman, working nearby, thought McCall was discussing him—not the wasp.

So, police said today, McCall was in hospital with a lacerated scalp and Coleman was charged with assault with a crowbar.

Victoria Story Gets Results

Victoria's publicity commissioner, George I. Warren, is one man who doesn't have to be told of the power of the press.

Earlier this week he was baffled by the avalanche of post cards to his office, enquiring about this city, all from Portland, Oregon. The cards started arriving Tuesday. There were 147 in one mail delivery alone.

Mr. Warren found the reason for it all today. He obtained a copy of last Sunday's magazine section of the Portland Oregonian, featuring a two-page spread on tourist attractions in the B.C. capital, written by an Oregonian staff writer who visited here earlier in the month.

"Just see what it's done for us," Mr. Warren beamed as he shuffled through his correspondence this morning. "Never had so many cards from one place in all my life."

Sinatra Hotly Denies Attempting Suicide

LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (AP)—Crooner Frank Sinatra today hotly denied rumors he swallowed an overdose of sleeping pills in an attempt at suicide.

"I've never heard anything so wild and ridiculous," Sinatra told reporters.

Referring to rumors which said he took the pills after a spat with screen actress Ava Gardner, Sinatra said: "This would be a hell of a time to do away with myself. I've been trying to lick this thing for two years and I've practically got it licked now."

His friends said that was a reference to his wife's refusal to free him so he could marry Miss Gardner.

He gave this account of what probably started the suicide rumors: "This whole thing took place Monday night, which makes me laugh."

"Ava and I were out and drank a lot of brandy. When I dropped Ava off and went back to my place I couldn't sleep. I got up and took a couple of second tablets, but they kind of stuck in my chest. I got a little worried and called a friend and he sent me a doctor."

Should the B.C. Power Commission dam Buttle Lake?

H. B. (BARNEY) OLSON, 1101 Beach Drive, owner Strathcona Hotel—"We have so little scenery left that it's high time we tried to hang on to what we have. People should get behind this move by conservationists to save the lake, because when an area is assigned as a park there should be some way of holding it as a park. We want tourists, and we have the climate to offer them. Now let's leave them something to look at. There used to be scenery on Vancouver Island when I first came here, but there is little now. Buttle Lake should most certainly be saved."

GEORGE E. WILLIS, 1628 Myrtle Avenue, Vancouver Island Tourist Service—"No, Buttle Lake should not be dammed. If we are going to develop a tourist business we will need all our lakes and scenery. To do away with them would be detrimental. I do not think the dam would do a great deal of harm, but it would ruin the recreational facilities at the lake. I have seen dams that are excellent tourist attractions, but a dam at Buttle Lake would not be spectacular enough to compare with, for example, Grand Coulee and Boulder Dams."

WALTER TUTTLE, 1821 Fern Street, advertising representative—"I think the Power Commission should take the lake over. Conservation is a great thing, and we all understand the need for it, but I believe development of the power potential there is a necessary step under conditions now existing on Vancouver Island. If this plan offers the cheapest way of obtaining the power, then it should be proceeded with. I understand the power is definitely essential, especially for the north end of the island."

BEN FRANKLING, 3313 Shelbourne Street, barber at Fashion Barber Shop—"If damming Buttle Lake proves to be to Vancouver Island's advantage, I'm for it. As for saving the lake for fishermen, I believe there are very few fishermen going to the lake compared with the many who will gain from the added power produced. And when you consider scenery, I've noticed myself that along many roads logging has actually improved the scenery by opening up new views. The same situation might hold at Buttle Lake. When everything is considered, I believe we would gain more than we'd lose."

MISS GWEN BAYN, 1149 Wychbury Avenue, Victoria Pharmacy clerk—"I don't know Buttle Lake, nor do I know much"

Weather Synopsis

VICTORIA'S SUNSHINE TO DATE, 1951-2,057 HOURS

SYNOPSIS: Weather conditions have improved considerably over the southeastern Interior this morning, though there is still considerable cloud being reported. The trend to better weather should continue slowly and mostly sunny conditions may be looked for tomorrow. However a few showers must be expected today and it is even likely that there will be occasional thunderstorms in the Kootenays late in the afternoon.

On the coast there will be no great change. Sunny warm weather will persist except in those regions along the more exposed coast where low cloud and fog drifting off the sea will cause cloudy skies through the morning and early afternoon.

REGIONAL FORECASTS VALID UNTIL MIDNIGHT SUNDAY

VICTORIA: Mostly clear today and Sunday. Little change in temperature. Winds light except southwest 20 late afternoon and evening of both days. Low tonight and high Sunday, 50 and 60.

VANCOUVER AND GEORGIA STRAIT: Sunny today. A few clouds tonight, clearing Sunday morning, clearing again by noon. Little change in temperature. Winds light except northwest 15 in Georgia Strait both afternoons. Low tonight and high Sunday at Vancouver Airport, 48 and 52; Abbotsford, 48 and 52; Nanaimo, 48 and 52.

ST. COAST: Overcast low cloud and fog over sea, drifting onshore all exposed coasts during the night, mornings and afternoons. Little change in temperature. Winds light, increasing to northwest 15 this afternoon and again Sunday afternoon. Low tonight and high Sunday at Estevan Point, 48 and 52.

Englishmen Going Without Kippers; Disdained Abroad

LONDON (CP)—Britain's herring salesmen admitted today that their drive to peddle kippers in North America didn't go so well last year. But they promised to keep on trying.

The annual report of the herring industry board says £43.0 was advanced to British kippers interests as part of a drive to make kipper breakfasts as popular in Canada and the United States as they are here. Of more than 1,000,000 pairs sent to North America, an undisclosed number remained unsold.

"It would be inadvisable commercially to say what stocks are unsold," an official said. "Effort to develop the market will continue."

For the Englishman, the herring thing seems to be that he can get a really succulent kipper because the best ones are abroad.

Teachers Plan Special Activities

Plans for the forthcoming Royal visit and arrangements for teachers to take part in civilian defense were discussed by principals and supervisors of elementary schools in the Greater Victoria area who met yesterday with Senior Municipal Inspector J. F. K. English at the school board offices in Craigdarroch Castle.

Teachers Make Plans For Royalty, Civil Defense

The training of principals and teachers in civil defense work and preliminary arrangements for school children participation in the Royal Visit were discussed Friday by principals and supervisors of Greater Victoria's 25 elementary schools.

Along with senior municipal inspector J. F. K. English, they held their annual pre-school meeting at the school board offices in Craigdarroch Castle.

Civil defense co-ordinator Leonard G. Hatcher told the principals all teachers will be required to earn basic first-aid. He urged the principals to make sure their teachers have some knowledge of civil defense.

He said a drill will be worked out with each school in the district and plans laid for the evacuation of children to safety.

Mr. Hatcher added: "The evacuation plans must be perfect. If unsuccessful, the effect on morale would be appalling."

Shelter, transportation, food, clothing and other care must all be arranged. Children must be labeled with names and addresses, he warned.

Life In Circus Told To Rotarians

At Priddy, "Sage of the Circus," who has been associated with circus life and animal training almost since childhood, convinced Rotarians at their Thursday luncheon in the Empress Hotel that "dumb animals aren't dumb."

Service clubs, church groups and other organizations have heard 3,000 speeches by Mr. Priddy since 1926, all describing his experiences with the "big top."

Within the next four weeks, the eight-man legislative committee headed by Sydney J. Smith, M.L.A. for Kamloops, will have visited all the hospitals in B.C. and heard deputations from every hospital centre.

Sessions which open in Vancouver Sept. 17 and last for probably 10 days will be the last by the committee.

Other hearings: Abbotsford, Sept. 5; Nanaimo, Sept. 10; Port Alberni and Courtenay, Sept. 11; Powell River, Sept. 12.

VENETIAN BLIND LAUNDRY OPENS

Here is wonderful news for all owners of Venetian Blinds... whether residences, institutions or offices. Sun-Ray Products have just installed a Venetian Blind Laundry that cleans blinds by an exclusive machine process.

Slats, tapes and cords are cleaned thoroughly and completely by this new method in a few minutes.

The "JETMATIC" process uses a special rinse after the blinds are laundered, preventing water marks from showing on the slats after drying.

Officials state that there has been a constantly growing demand for this service in Victoria. Operating in conjunction with the laundry is a pick-up and complete repair department.

This service is a special boon to offices or institutions, since janitors cannot properly clean Venetian Blinds while hanging in the windows.

Alaska Aviation Toll Climbs To 84 In Ten Wrecks Over Past Six Weeks

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UP)—The crash of a navy patrol bomber on a bleak Aleutian island brought to 84 today the number of persons dead or missing in 10 widely-scattered Alaska aviation accidents in the past six weeks.

The navy said a ground search party had recovered eight bodies of the 10 men aboard the P4Y-2 Privateer which crashed and burned yesterday on "Little Tanaga" island, located about 1,200 miles southwest of here.

Search for the other two men was to be resumed today. The Alaska command public information office here said there "was always a slim possibility" they might have parachuted or still be alive on the 30-square mile island. But "no sign of life" was found last night.

The ground party was sent from Adak island, two miles to the northwest, after wreckage of the four-engined plane was spotted by a search plane. The Privateer was on a routine patrol flight from its base at the Adak naval station.

The plane crashed and burned on the northwest side of the island during foggy and cloudy weather when the ceiling was only about 700 feet, officers said.

It was the second plane of the same type to crash in the same area during the past three weeks. On Aug. 12, a navy Privateer crashed on Adak island, killing the 12 persons aboard.

Officers could offer no explanation for the large number of air accidents that have marked the worst period in the territory's aviation history.

ALL WELCOME

Interviews of enlightenment

A visit with your minister, a discussion with a teacher, a trip to your doctor's office—all are enlightening and profitable too. Make it a point to visit your physician regularly twice a year. He may discover an incipient illness and thus spare you prolonged suffering. When medicine is prescribed, visit this pharmacy. We have a large stock of high-quality pharmaceutical and biological products. Here you may obtain any medicine your doctor orders. You will receive prompt, courteous attention.

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION?

By DON INGHAM and DUNCAN MACPAIL

Should the B.C. Power Commission dam Butte Lake?

H. B. (BARNEY) OLSON, 1101 Beach Drive, owner of Strathcona Hotel—"We have so little scenery left that it's high time we tried to hang on to what we have. People should get behind this move by conservationists to save the lake, because when an area is assigned as a park there should be some way of holding it as a park. We want tourists, and we have the climate to offer them. Now let's leave them something to look at. There used to be scenery on Vancouver Island when I first came here, but there is little now. Butte Lake should most certainly be saved."

GEORGE E. WILLIS, 1628 Myrtle Avenue, Vancouver Island Tourist Service—"No, Butte Lake should not be dammed. If we are going to develop a tourist business we will need all our lakes and scenery. To do away with them would be detrimental. I do not think the dam would do a great deal of harm, but it would ruin the recreational facilities at the lake. I have seen dams that are excellent tourist attractions, but a dam at Butte Lake would not be spectacular enough to compare with, for example, Grand Coulee and Boulder Dams."

WALTER TUTTLE, 1821 Fern Street, advertising representative—"I think the Power Commission should take the lake over. Conservation is a great thing, and we all understand the need for it, but I believe development of the power potential there is a necessary step under conditions now existing on Vancouver Island. If this plan offers the cheapest way of obtaining the power, then it should be proceeded with. I understand the power is definitely essential, especially for the north end of the island."

BEN FRANKLING, 3313 Shelbourne Street, barber at Fashion Barber Shop—"If damming Butte Lake proves to be to Vancouver Island's advantage, I'm for it. As for saving the lake for fishermen, I believe there are very few fishermen going to the lake compared with the many who will gain from the added power produced. And when you consider scenery, I've noticed myself that along many roads logging has actually improved the scenery by opening up new views. The same situation might hold at Butte Lake. When everything is considered, I believe we would gain more than we'd lose."

MISS GWEN BAYL, 1149 Wychbury Avenue, Victoria Pharmacy clerk—"I don't know Butte Lake, nor do I know much about the power situation on Vancouver Island. However, I know mountain lakes, and certainly don't think they should be ruined. I'm in favor of preserving the lake as a beauty spot. I used to live on Lake Windermere, and would not have liked to see it marked in any way. If the power is badly needed I would say build the dam, but only as a last resort."

Weather Synopsis

VICTORIA'S SUNSHINE TO DATE, 1951-2,057 HOURS

SYNOPSIS: Weather conditions have improved considerably over the southeastern Interior this morning, though there is still considerable cloud being reported. The trend to better weather should continue slowly and mostly sunny conditions may be looked for tomorrow. However a few showers must be expected today and it is even likely that there will be occasional thunderstorms in the Kootenays late in the afternoon.

On the coast there will be no great change. Sunny warm weather will persist except in those regions along the more exposed coast where low cloud and fog drifting off the sea will cause cloudy skies through the morning and early afternoon.

REGIONAL FORECASTS VALID UNTIL MIDNIGHT SUNDAY

VICTORIA: Mostly clear today and Sunday. Little change in temperature. Winds light except southwest 20 late afternoon and evening of both days. Low tonight and high Sunday, 50 and 68.

VANCOUVER AND GEORGIA STRAIT: Sunny today. A few clouds tonight, clearing Sunday morning, clearing again by noon. Little change in temperature. Winds light except northwest 15 in Georgia Strait both afternoons. Low tonight and high Sunday at Vancouver Airport, 48 and 72; Abbotsford, 48 and 78; Nanaimo, 48 and 75.

ST. COAST: Overcast low cloud and drizzle, drifting offshore all exposed coasts during the night, mornings and early afternoons. Little change in temperature. Winds light, increasing to northwest 15 this afternoon and again Sunday afternoon. Low tonight and high Sunday at Estevan Point, 48 and 60.

When People Spend Less

THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT pretends that the leveling off of retail prices in the last six months is the result of its wise system of direct price controls. But the latest report of the commerce department, a branch of the government, contradicts this thesis completely. It shows, on the contrary, that the recent stability in American prices is the result of market forces quite outside the government's control.

In the second quarter of this year, says the commerce department, the American people's money income increased at a rate of $6 billions a year, reaching an all-time high. If the people had increased their rate of spending correspondingly a large demand for goods would have developed and inevitably pushed prices upward. Instead, with more money in their pockets, the American people spent less. Their annual rate of spending on durable goods dropped by $6 billions and on light goods by $2 billions.

The reduction in public buying, the original source of inflation, is further reflected in the condition of business. The inventories of business—the goods not yet sold—rose at an annual rate of $14 billions in the second quarter.

The New York Times remarks, these figures deliver a sharp factual rebuke to the government, which has asserted that the easing of inflation in the United States has resulted solely from direct price controls. In fact those controls have had little effect one way or the other.

Prices leveled off at the first of the year because the post-Korean buying panic burned itself out. People eased their pressure on the market, saved more money and, for the moment anyway, stopped bidding up prices.

Congress has lately decided that direct price control, as attempted in the first half of the year, was so ineffective that it might as well be forgotten. The watered-down law passed by the Congress, President Truman says, is worthless.

Nevertheless, prices have not been rising significantly in the United States simply because the demand for goods has not been exceeding supply. The inflationary pressure will return if demand—as stimulated by rearmament—again exceeds supply, as it may do before the year's end.

Inflation under those conditions will be overcome only by increased production or reduced demand or both, not by government fiat.

The Canadian government knows this and is trying to reduce demand by its deflationary policy. It is said that this policy has not succeeded because, up to midsummer, retail prices were rising. If anyone doubts that it is succeeding now he should consult such areas of the economy as the automobile industry, which is protesting against deflation.

If the government is weak such protests will drive it into a partial surrender of its policy in one place today and a larger surrender tomorrow. Once the dike of the present policy is breached a flood may well follow. Then, perhaps too late, the value of the existing policy will be realized.

The Case Of Automobiles

THE CURRENT DIFFICULTIES OF the Canadian automobile industry are attributed by the manufacturers to the government's deflationary policy which, in this field, is evidently working at last. But a larger process also is at work—the automobile industry, by placing new cars beyond the reach of many Canadians, is pricing itself out of the market. If automobile prices continue to rise this process will go on regardless of the government's restrictions on credit buying.

The automobile industry, centred in a few miles of Ontario, is an important segment of the Canadian economy, supporting a substantial volume of employment and turning out excellent products. It deserves fair treatment from all governments. When the industry for years has enjoyed high tariff protection, when it has been enabled by Canadian law to charge prices far higher than those prevailing in the United States, when every motorist in the country has paid it a handsome subsidy it cannot be said that the government or the consumer has failed to give it adequate consideration.

In complaining that its sales have dropped since the great boom earlier in the year the automobile industry seems to forget that the government's credit curbs were deliberately designed to produce this result, not only in automobiles but in many other kinds of manufactured goods. Since manpower, steel and other products are more urgently required in the munitions industries and to support a vast expansion of various basic industries, the government is trying to cut down somewhat on non-essentials and concentrate on essentials. The increasing shortage of steel suggests that the reduction in non-essentials may have to go further yet.

Some transfer of manpower and materials from civilian to defense industries must be made simply because, for the moment, we lack enough for both purposes. The problem is make this transfer with a minimum of dislocation in industry. So far there has been no serious dislocation. The change is being effected with more smoothness than most economists had expected.

As more materials and manpower are available, when the defense program is completed, we can afford to expand again our output of automobiles and other mechanical goods. Even then, however, the automobile industry will face a serious problem if it cannot get its prices down to a point where the mass market can pay them.

Let's Not Fumble The Arts Centre

THERE APPEAR TO BE TWO MAIN points delaying the city council's acceptance of the Spencer home for art centre purposes. In the first instance, some members of the council are concerned over the ground maintenance cost—an item put tentatively at $2,000. In the second place, other aldermen seem unwilling to see Victoria saddled with expense for another institution of community value while adjacent municipalities dodge any financial responsibility.

The issues have been raised quite properly at the council meeting. They should not, however, be allowed to become insurmountable barriers. As we have asked previously in these columns, how else could the city acquire such valuable property to overcome a glaring cultural deficiency at so low a price? Victoria cannot expect to have a civic art centre without cost. Nor can it ignore the fact that such an institution would meet the recreational and educational needs of a substantial section of our community. That the council understands its obligation to shoulder such responsibilities is indicated clearly in policy followed in other fields. Our parks and our civic arena, despite certain revenues from them, are maintained only because taxpayers' funds support them.

It is reasonable to assume that taxpayers who fancy neither baseball, playground activities, skating or ice hockey, but who still pay their share to provide facilities for such activities, should enjoy similar consideration.

Admittedly, acceptance of the Spencer home offer will entail expense, and entail it at a time when municipalities as well as provincial and federal governments are being urged to economize. If adjacent municipalities, numbering among their citizens many arts centre patrons, contributed to the project, the outlay by each would be negligible.

These municipalities can, of course, raise legalistic arguments against contribution if they reject any moral obligation to assist in this important community enterprise. If, however, they wish to participate as sponsors or trustees, it is inconceivable that some means of paying their share cannot be found.

In Lull Before Conferences Ministers Rest Pending Heavy Weather In Britain And Afield

By MICHAEL BARKWAY Correspondent of Saturday Night and the Victoria Daily Times, From London

AUGUST being a holiday month in Britain as well as Canada, it provided a sort of lull before the crucial conferences of September. Ministers have been taking holidays in relays. Mr. Attlee spent some time in Norway, and as soon as he got back Mr. Herbert Morrison went off for a cruise in Norwegian waters. Mr. Hugh Gaitskell, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, is also having a short holiday before the conferences begin.

The first big hurdle for the Labor Government to clear this month is the annual Trade Union Congress. Gaitskell is coming back to address it, and as soon as his speech is over he'll rush to the London airport to get a plane for Washington. It's a vivid illustration of the divided cares and loyalties of this government. In Washington Gaitskell will hope to talk to all the U.S. leaders about the economic and financial problems which are bedeviling the western world. But first he's got to do his bit towards holding the powerful trade unions in line with government policy.

A foretaste of the sort of trouble that may be in store came from one of the most important union groups which held its conference last month. The Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering

Unions adopted a plan to extend nationalization to a good many branches of engineering, notably aircraft manufacture and coal-mining machinery, and to bring many others under government boards. It also put forward a new large wage demand. Evidently, therefore, it is no good supposing that the clamor for nationalization has worked itself out yet. It's only the government, which knows all the headaches of the nationalized industries, that would like to call a halt. It remains to be seen how far the rank-and-file of the unions will be able to push it into new adventures. And the key fact may well be that Mr. Aneurin Bevan and his supporters are waiting on the left ready to exploit any dissatisfaction among Labor (certain raiser) Party members.

Moreover the Trade Union Congress is only a sort of curtain-raiser for the annual meeting of the Labor party a month later. That is when the real fight between Bevan and the government will take place, and its result may well determine whether or not Mr. Attlee will call an early general election.

So September may well be critical for Britain's Labor Government. It's also critical for the North Atlantic Treaty and the western alliance. First there's the Japanese peace conference in San Francisco, coinciding with the meetings of Finance Ministers in Washington for the boards of the International Monetary Fund and the International Bank. Then,

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

I HOPE the Persians are better at running an oil company than they are at water supply. I have never been in Teheran, but I know men who have, and each of them has always been most impressed at first, by the wonderful system for keeping the streets clean. Water flows down a channel day and night. It is less impressive when you learn that this is the city's drinking water. People bathe in it and spit in it and throw quite literally everything into it.

There was a chap writing about this in a recent Blackwood's, and he said he noticed that as he went downhill the citizens looked sicker and sicker.

This same issue of Blackwood's also pointed out, by the way, in one of its excellent editorials, that to talk of "nationalizing" Persian oil is a sloppy and wicked way of thinking. The oil already belongs to the Persians and they draw a handsome royalty on it. They run the whole country on it (though the country refuses to be run). It was theirs, is theirs, and always will be theirs.

BUT the refineries belong to the company, and never belonged to the Persians, and can never legally be stolen. The installations cost more than any other company has ever put into a foreign country. Because they are situated on Persian soil by legal contract does not mean they belong to the first Persian who desires them.

There is another cockeyed and comic opera touch to the affair. If Anglo-Persian had attempted any interference in Persian domestic matters, Persian pride would have been enraged. Even, or especially, if this interference had been in the way of improvements. But many of these same Persians are more than interested in the idea of a Russo-Persian "company" which would promise new roads and God knows what else. Stalin certainly knows what else!

TUT, TUT.

THE other Sunday the CBC carried an excellent BBC broadcast about the history of the discovery and opening of Tutankhamen's tomb in the 1920's. (All right, you spell him... there are about four different ways). After listening for nearly an hour to first-hand accounts of the dazzling artistic merit of the tomb's contents, I decided to learn more about these miraculous treasures. Naturally, I have seen a few pictures of them in the last quarter-century, and have always heard them called incomparable, breathtaking, and all that. But I wanted more detail and more critical appreciation.

WELL, the first book I opened went on at some length about the artistic miracles of Tutankhamen's father-in-law, Akhenaton. While obviously hiring artists of all sorts from Crete, which had some wonderful ideas about art, Akhenaton had added a great deal to Cretan art all on his own. He did this personally, you understand, and taught the artists their own business. With the result that Egyptian art went through a highly original and arresting phase that lasted the exact length of his reign and then went back to the conventionally manufactured stuff.

THE author then says: "This bid for freedom died with the King who had inspired it, and his son-in-law Tutankhamen's tomb was found to be filled with the most expensive rubbish that money could buy from the most fashionable furnishers." Now, this would seem like blasphemy to any archaeologist, and perhaps to you too. Still, the author was Roger Fry, one of the greatest art critics of the century. I hesitate to call him dead wrong, no matter how much he made me jump. And jump I did, till I realized that the entire volume of praise of Tutankhamen's treasures has come from archaeologists, not from artists. An archaeologist thinks himself an artist every time, of course, and I trust nobody in any museum is reading this.

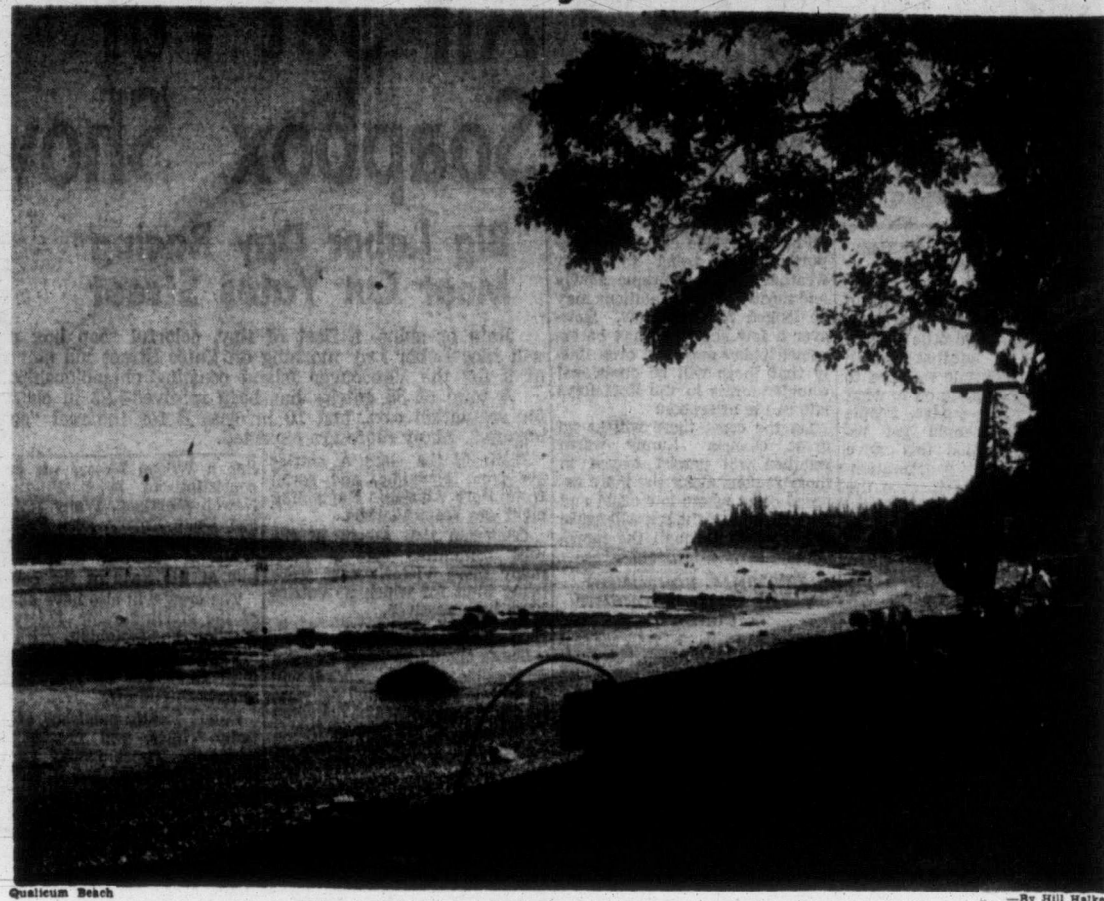

JUST to make sure, I turned to E. A. Gardner, formerly Yates Professor of Archaeology at London. And he said that old Tut's treasure is the most remarkable set of objects ever found together, though suffering slightly from the influence of the affected work of his father-in-law, the heretic Akhenaton! He was a heretic because he believed in one God only, naughty man, but here I think the word has a conscious or unconscious reference to his wickedness in showing originality. How can an archaeologist trace "influences" in a chap who is too original? And how can you an archaeologist if you can't trace influences for Pete's sake? And when I say for Pete's sake, I naturally mean for the sake of Isis and Osiris and Ra (the god of crossword puzzles) and all the old gang that Akhenaton laughed at.

on about Sept. 15, they all converge on Ottawa for the North Atlantic Treaty Council. Each of the twelve members will send at least three ministers—foreign, defense and finance; and all the ministers will have their usual cortege of experts and advisers.

The officials and experts are already hard at work preparing reports for the Ministers' Council. One will cover what is called "the burden-sharing exercise": it's an attempt to show how fairly or unfairly the rearmament effort is falling on the various countries. From it may come recommendations not only about how U.S. aid should be distributed, but also about how other countries should help each other. Some of the European members of N.A.T.O.—and France among them—hope for a good deal from this study. Others, which might be on the giving rather than the receiving end, are more inclined to belittle it. But everyone agrees that the report has got further than was expected.

The problem of Turkey and Greece must also be brought nearer settlement at the Ottawa meeting; though by common consent the German problem is being held over until later. But there certainly will be nothing routine about the Ottawa meeting. It is one of the big international conferences of the year; and if it goes well it should launch the North Atlantic alliance on a new phase of its attempt to deter aggression through strength.

Mr Peeps' Diary

Being A Chronicle Of Our Times

MONDAY, 27th—A thick fog rolled in from the sea this day, a bleak augury of autumn. At noon I took me to the hotel to listen to a discourse on the new industries of this province, full of statistics and most vexsome dull. At my place of business came a new volume of the poems of Robbie Burns, with the dialects in translation; which I showed to a good Scot, by name Harry Penman, and he wept for joy at the sight of it. But he was sore taxed at the omission of "The Cotters' Saturday Night," which, he said, he had read more than a hundred times, he holding it to be "the finest poem in the world." At Spencer-house, some gentlemen of affairs gathered to discuss the means of raising money for the needy of this community on the night of October 1, a venture most noble. My supper was a piece of beef, more fat than lean, but tasty. Anon I chatted with my in-laws. Thence by carriage through the forests to the airport, but the afternoon's heavy rains had turned the road to a quagmire, and I was sore afraid I would turn an axle. And I was greatly incensed by the nonsense which persists, relative to the parking of carriages, which means that passengers must proceed on foot a great distance with their bags, while space near the buildings remains empty. A pox on the varlet who conceived this indignity! Thus greatly fatigued home and to bed.

TUESDAY, 28th—I lay late abed, an ake in my head from the consumption of too many cheroots. Thus sluggishly to the office, where I had little stomach for business. Comes to me a fine novel, "The Cruel Sea," about the war in the Atlantic, which I will read with the utmost relish. The morning's bluster gave way to clear and sunny skies, which makes me glad that I live in this city. So I took me home in good spirits, resolved to retire early, and thus knit up the ravelled sleeve of care.

WEDNESDAY, 29th—Our air having been washed, rinsed, and laundered; I partook of several early morning draughts, and felt better. My pheasant gabbled; my dog frisked; my children fought; and everyone was bumptious and jaunty. At my place of business comes calling Mistress Barbara Green in a large purple hat, demnd' fetching, she the dedicated matron who provides food for the needy. Anon, much frazzled by affairs, to the seaside for a joust of golf with Master Ormonde Hall, a barister from across the water, and Sir Harold Hepburn, a courtly gentleman who plays this game as if he invented it. And I saw many old friends: Master Ross Hanbury, re-visiting this city which he loves; Sir Colin Hart, whom I knew on Top's battered shores, at a place called Bally Haly; Master Phil Garnett of Spokane, who tarries at the Oak Bay Beach Inn, a rare excellent fellow. I did poorly, but the company was splendid, and I joyed myself in it. By and by my wife comes to dinner. Thence to the theatre, where we were greeted by Sir Robbie Robertson, that sterling Scot, who is an ornament of the entertainment world. This play was "As Young As You Feel," and I was somewhat surprised to discover 'tis the work of one Lamar Trotti, known as one of the "Unfriendly Tens," and charged with subversive tendencies. And this picture was very mischievous in its dialogue, and sly, and designed to set workers against employers, and thus in no sense a comedy.

THURSDAY, 30th—This day at noon I heard Master Al Priddy discourse most entertainingly on the question: "Can Animals Think?" Master Priddy says they can, and I do not doubt it. At my place of business comes Master Sam Taylor, a tall, thin, and charming fellow, a forthcoming entertainment which will make for good works in this city, and it has my blessing. His attraction being a certain Master Horace Heidt, who in days past conducted his music with a large husky dog by his side; and Zounds! what a strange cultural stragem this be. At supper I sat me down with Messrs. Fred McGregor and Bill Poupore; ex-premiers Duff Pattullo and John Hart; Sir John Rowlands, composer of that stirring epic, the Marching Song of B.C.; and many other excellent fellows, and we listened to a fine address by The Hon. Robert Mayhew, who spoke with deep feeling of his love for this city. And I thought I saw His Worship Mayor Percy George wipe a furtive tear from his eye, so graceful, and honest were the sentiments. Quoth Mr. Mayhew in a great epigram: "I haven't got time to 'get even' with my enemies—I'm too busy trying to get even with my friends."

FRIDAY, 31st—Up early, and into the country to chat with Master Hutchison, who leaves this day for Clearwater country, where he will paddle a canoe with Sir Horace Sniffin. By and by comes calling the Hon. Robert Mayhew, who strolled through our place of business, and chatted with many friends. At lunch, a great press of ladies and gentlemen gathered to hear The Lord Mayor of London, Sir Denys Lawson, who proved himself a handsome magistrate, most gifted of brains and tongue; but I found the best part of his discourse that which he extemporized, without recourse to notes. And his wife was most fetching, reminding me of Mistress Anna Neagle. By and by to the new Sir James Douglas building, where His Lordship appeared again, and was presented with a key to this edifice, which hath been constructed at a layings-out of £700,000. The premier spoke most graciously, and there was warm applause for His Lordship from many old ladies of London in the assembly who clucked at the golden finery of his raiment. Anon I chatted with Capt. Robert Pennington of old Navy friends, and tilted a glass, which I was much in need of, with Ministers Carson and Macdonald. We discoursed of politics, and the abuse suffered by public men, which is a hazard of the sport, and amiably endured by these fellows. My supper was creamed shrimps on rice, a dish most excellently pleasing. Thus weary, but contented, I took me to bed, to begin the reading of "Russia By Daylight," a new British book, highly commended.

Soviet Bluster On Trade

New York Times

THERE is more than a little whistling in the dark behind the bluster of Izvestia's latest denunciation of Western restrictions on shipments of strategic goods to the Soviet Union and its satellites. If we are to believe that newspaper, these restrictions cannot harm the satellites' economies because of the "mighty support of the U.S.S.R." Yet Izvestia does not explain why it feels called upon to complain so bitterly if these measures are actually "powerless" as it claims.

The reality, of course, is quite different. The present ban on strategic Western goods for the Soviet Empire is hurting, and hurting badly. Far from being able to provide these commodities for its satellites, the Soviet Union itself badly needs key types of machinery and raw materials from the West. This need has been explicitly stated in the last two issues of Moscow's English-language News magazine, most recently in the article by N. Torsuev which Izvestia reprinted on the 16th of last month. As he said then, "The Soviet Union's demand for the most diverse kinds of goods is very big" and today it wants "many types of American machines and new technical appliances." Surely Izvestia's editors must read their own paper.

PINCHING

How badly these restrictions are pinching is most clearly indicated by the lengths to which Moscow is now going to try to have them lifted or eased. This desire is clearly a key motivation behind the latest skimpy Soviet concession on the Lend-Lease settlement and it is also behind the Soviet-planned reports that the U.S.S.R. will soon call for a new international clearing union to expedite and facilitate East-West trade. The scheduled Moscow conference of economists is also a move aimed at the same goal.

If Moscow seriously believes that these gestures will suffice to end the trade barriers it is deluding itself. The Western policy on this matter is born of the bitter experience of the Nineteen Thirties. Then the West failed to take such measures against threatening aggressors and found itself afterward in a war in which its own scrap iron had been converted into enemy ammunition. That mistake will not be repeated. If the Kremlin really wants free trade restored it must drop its posturing and its propagandistic appeals for a "five-power peace pact" and buckle down to the job of really resolving international tensions in the United Nations, the organization specifically created for that task. When Moscow proves it does not intend aggression the free world can stop treating it as a potential aggressor.

Comrades All

Like salesmen in the days when selling was a real task Uncle Sam is playing both sides of the street. And there is some indication that he is getting results.

Not long ago Tito was denouncing the United States in unmeasured terms. Now he gives assurance that "The American Government and people will always have our country at their side in the struggle for peace."

At virtually the same time a deal has been made with Franco to provide for U.S. use of Spanish bases in the event of war. Uncle Sam is not playing favorites, and he seems to have better claims to the use of the term "Comrade" than Uncle Joe.

Facts About Fog And Mist

The Times of London

"FOG and mist, and a most damnable romantic London." Thus Arnold Bennett in his Journal, casually epitomizing the views of all the artists on the transfiguring touch of the mists.

Mr. Yoshio Markino, the Japanese painter, puts it more quaintly and with greater fervor. "I went into the study of London mists. . . One evening I started from my place about 9 o'clock and enjoyed myself in fogs until I felt my feet so tired that I came to my conscience. . . The more I observed the mists, the more I fell into love."

FOGGY TERMINOLOGY

The ordinary man, in whom the poet is perforce overlaid by the practical citizen, will detect in these quotations a certain confusion of terminology.

He is not very sure, in a meteorological sense, where mist ends and fog begins but he draws a sharp distinction in his mind between the two.

Mist he can appreciate; mist is the stuff that on his summer holiday softly curtains the river until breakfast time, and then its drawn aside to show another superb, sunny day, or on later autumn mornings kindly veils the dripping mess that his garden has become. Fog of the friendlier sort he can enjoy; the thin fog that softens the harsher tones of the city and suburbs without obliterating the familiar landmark.

ANOTHER MATTER

But real fog he finds another matter—the "great tawny weltering fog" that draws "the passive city"

. . . off into the void. Spires, bridges, streets, and squares, as if a sponge

Had wiped out London.

He would if he could feel romantic about it, but it only makes him cold and cross and late for work. It transforms the 8.15 for him, not into a magic chariot but into the approximately 8.45, a crawling, blind, insensitive monster that bears him with infuriating slowness, yard by groping yard, towards an office where everyone else is late and cross and cold.

At home by the fire in the evening, with the windows tightly shut and the curtains drawn, he can think romantic thoughts of the fog, but in the early morning it is Mr. Bennett's sterner word that rises most readily to his mind.

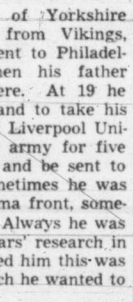

Dr. Colin and Mary Ibbotson, and son John.

NEW VICTORIANS

by Gwen Cash

Dr. Colin Ibbotson is a young man with a sonorous decided voice, a happy sense of humor and experience that reaches from Philadelphia to Calcutta and back again. He is the new associate radiologist at the Royal Jubilee Hospital and comes here from the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal. He, his wife Mary and 16-month-old son, John, traveled out by car south of the line via Dakota's "Badlands" and Montana's mountains. It took them 10 hot, interesting days. They now live at 974 Island Road.

Gwen Cash

Born English, of Yorkshire stock descended from Vikings, Colin Ibbotson went to Philadelphia to live when his father taught school there. At 19 he returned to England to take his medical degree at Liverpool University, enter the army for five and a half years and be sent to India. There sometimes he was ahead of the Burma front, sometimes in Ceylon. Always he was medical. Two years' research in radiology convinced him this was the branch in which he wanted to specialize.

"It's not just looking at pictures, you know," he told me. "It's diagnosis and treatment. And the two are quite separate branches."

When I quizzed him about possible errors in radiological diagnosis he said, "It can happen if doctors and patients stick around demanding you read their pictures while they are still wet."

GOOD EQUIPMENT

He considers the Jubilee Hospital has very good radiological equipment. "Some of the best I've worked with."

Of the government's insurance policy of giving radiological treatment free of charge to "in" patients and making "out" patients pay for it, he said, "It could lead to hospital beds being occupied by patients who could otherwise be home."

After India, Dr. Ibbotson returned to England and a brief period with the Southport General Infirmary before going back to Philadelphia and the Chester County Hospital.

It was at the Southport General he met Mary. She was the sister in charge of the operating room.

"We didn't like each other much at first," they both agreed. Soon they fell in love, though, and she joined him in the U.S. to be married. John Howarth was born a Canadian in Montreal.

Egypt Welcomes Russian Backing

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP)—Egypt's foreign minister, Mohamed Salah el Din Pasha, has hailed Russia's sudden interest in the Suez Canal as a "turning point toward the path of right and justice and real stability in the middle east."

He told a press conference last night that a veto threat by the Soviet in the United Nations Security Council against a U.S.-British-French resolution calling on Egypt to lift shipping restrictions in the Suez, was "a happy surprise." The restrictions were instituted to hamper trade with Israel.

Bed At Solarium 'Memorial' To Kirkham Boy

The hospital bed which was bought by the Harold Kirkham Fund was donated Friday to the Queen Alexandra Solarium as a "memorial" to the 14-year-old boy who died Wednesday from incurable disease following six months illness, it was learned today.

Funeral services for the youth were held Friday afternoon in St. Mark's Church, Boleskine Road.

The $285 hospital bed, to be used by the Solarium, was purchased with money donated by hundreds of B.C. residents.

The remaining money from the fund will be used to assist the Kirkham family pay hospital and other expenses and to help other bed-ridden youngsters in hospital.

STOCKHOLM, (Reuters)—King Gustav V of Sweden, who died last October, aged 92, left his two sons a fortune valued at 11,529,900 crowns (about $2,228,000).

THE CHURCH PAGE

By LANCE H. WHITTAKER

The summer series of outdoor services at Beacon Hill Park, concluded last Sunday, was instigated and planned by a comparatively new organization in Victoria, and one which can contribute much to the spiritual life of the city.

The Christian Business Men's Committee had its beginnings in Chicago in 1931. In 20 years it has become one of the fastest-growing interdenominational Christian organizations in the world. Hundreds of cities now have their own committee of dedicated business men, banded together with the purpose of carrying out the Bible precept to "preach the gospel to every creature," not only by word of mouth but by individual and collective activity which will carry conviction because of sincerity.

Sponsor Sermons From Science

One of the tasks which the local group has taken up—has been the sponsorship of the sound movie films, "Sermons From Science," produced by Dr. Irvin Moon of the Moody Bible Institute. As anyone who has seen them will testify, the films tackle the so-called "conflict" between science and religion with a realism and honesty which is effective and impressive.

Other activities of the committee include such projects as the summer series of services; and all is done with such little fuss and fanfare that few are aware of the committee's existence.

City clerk Frank Hunter was the moving spirit in the park services; other committee members have sparked many other projects.

A roster of the members could very well be a roster of a chamber of commerce committee, or a Gyro, Rotary or Lions Club committee. Headed up by chairman William Sawyer, retired civil servant, the council includes vice-chairman H. L. Harris, O.B.E., a retired British government executive; secretary William Hampton, teacher; treasurer George Jarrig, shoe repair man; Dr. Vernon Taylor, osteopath; W. W. McGill, druggist; Ray Whellams, merchant; Vic Gill, accountant; William Crabbs, auto salesman; Alec Hall, B.C.E.R., and Frank Martens of the British and Foreign Bible Society.

Total membership of the committee is 40, all active in some capacity in their own churches in addition to their work with the C.B.M.C.

Anglicans To Elect Eighth Primate

When the electoral college of the general synod of the Church of England in Canada meets here a week from today it will elect its eighth primate in the 58 years since its founding.

Primates are elected for life, or for as long as they remain bishops of a Canadian diocese.

A bishop or an archbishop in charge of any one of the 28 dioceses may be elected to be head of the church. Suffragan bishops (assistant bishops) and co-adjutor bishops (those who have retired as diocesan heads) are not eligible except by a special "proclamation" by the general synod. No such proclamation has been made in the coming election.

The Church of England electoral college, which is charged with the responsibility of filling the post left vacant by the death of Archbishop Kingston, is made up of bishops, who constitute the Upper House, and the remaining clergy and laymen, who become the Lower House.

The Upper House submits three or more nominations to the Lower House, which votes by ballot until an election results, or until it asks the Upper House for more nominees. Clergy and laity vote separately; there is no debate, and each nomination must be voted upon. There is no election until one candidate receives a majority of both clerical and lay votes.

The last election of a primate, which saw Dr. Kingston elevated to the post, was held in Nova Scotia in 1947.

WEEKLY SERMON

Men Of All Races Formed First Christian Church

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Discrepancies and inconsistencies are common among mortal men, but it is doubtful whether any discrepancy and inconsistency is deeper, persistent, and more widespread than that between the racial and color-line prejudices and the plain teachings of the New Testament.

The Christian Church began when the Master gathered around Him the first disciples, but the Day of Pentecost has been commonly regarded as marking the beginning of its world organization (Acts 2). It was a racially conglomerate mass of people (Acts 2:9-11), who heard Peter that day, and experienced the outpouring of the Spirit. There was no racial prejudice there.

How is it that the example of the Master has not been more widely a model for all Christians in their attitude toward their fellow men? If early Christians failed to rise above prejudices, perhaps it is not amazing that later generations of Christians have failed. But the discrepancy between the preaching of the gospel of brotherly love, to love one another as God has loved us, and its actual practice is very great, as the most casual observer must realize.

It is a discrepancy which must be eliminated.

An Art Gallery for Victoria

A beautiful home has been offered to the citizens of Victoria for an Arts Centre and Gallery. This is an outright gift.

The Gallery can be operated by the Society, financed largely out of its own funds. An Arts Centre and Gallery is a civic venture and an educational program. We have asked the city for a grant made up as follows:

Cash grant	$3,000.00
Value of taxes	870.00
Upkeep of exterior of building	250.00
Maintenance of grounds as park	1,500.00
Total	$5,620.00

This proposal was put before the city in June. Our winter program and substantial bequests depend upon an immediate decision.

Catholic Union Opens New Quarters

Celebrate 21 Years' Growth

QUEBEC (CP)—The difference between a tiny office and a modern five-story building illustrates today the 30-year growth of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor.

And, at Sunday's inauguration of an $800,000 edifice on downtown Charest Boulevard, they'll speak of the ups-and-downs of the labor organization established in 1921 at a convention of Roman Catholic workers' syndicates in Hull, Que.

Since then, the body has expanded from a membership of little more than 10,000 to a 90,000-member force.

Inauguration of the building will be followed by 39th annual convention Sept. 15-20, when the labor body will present a formal statement of its principles for approval of delegates from its 450 affiliated syndicates.

The C.C.C.L., basing its policies on the social doctrine of the Roman Catholic Church, will describe in this code of principles its "particular conception of the worker"—that he is destined for other things than earning a living.

"That is why we drive at promotion of his professional, economic, social and moral interests," said one C.C.C.L. official. The 16-point statement is still secret but the C.C.C.L. feels its principles will appeal to the Anglo-Saxon labor circles, as well as to its membership, now almost 100 per cent French-speaking.

The C.C.C.L. claims it represents all asbestos and glove workers in Quebec, almost all aluminum workers, 90 per cent of the shoe workers, about 70 per cent of the textile workers and two-thirds of the pulp and paper mill employees.

Present Janice Bacon With $100 Lions Prize

"I'm going to study to become a nurse."

This is the career attractive Janice Bacon, 2720 Asquith Drive, Victoria College student who won the Lions Club 1950-51 $100 scholarship, has chosen.

Janice received the $100 cheque and a miniature silver lion at the luncheon meeting of the Lions Club at the Empress Hotel Friday. The presentation was made by Arthur Quail, vice-president.

HARD WORKER

The student was introduced to the club by Dr. Harry Hickman, vice-principal of Victoria College, as "the hardest working college student who outclassed everyone in chemistry 100 and biology 100." Janice last year also shared with another student the Chris Spencer scholarship and at Victoria High School placed second in the University entrance examinations.

Miss Bacon is the fourth student to receive the Lions Club scholarship since it was started. Previous winners are Denis Bailey, now attending Guelph Agricultural College; Diane Sawyer, who led third year at the University of British Columbia and Douglas Bebb, second-year student at Victoria College.

During the summer months, Janice has been working in the circulation department of The Daily Times to help pay towards her University education.

TACOMA AQUARIUM CLUB HERE FOR WEEK-END VISIT, PICNIC

Sixteen members of the Tacoma Aquarium Club arrived in Victoria at noon today to meet and exchange views with members of the Victoria Aquarium Club.

The group was met by Dr. Clifford Carl, president of the local organization, and taken on a tour of the city. Tonight the visitors will be shown aquariums in private homes and on Sunday will attend a picnic at Mount Douglas Park.

Dr. Carl said he hoped that aquarists from both sides of the border would continue to visit each other every year. "Aquariums as a hobby are becoming more popular," he said. "Membership in the Victoria club is now more than 50."

BEDTIME STORY

by Thornton W. Burgess

Experience is often rough:
The lessons that it teaches tough.

Old Mother Nature.

Black Pussy was having fun over in the Green Forest. He had caught a little Chipmunk. It was Little Stripes, smallest son of Striped Chipmunk. Little Stripes had been out in the Great World only a few days and for several days had been living in an old log. Because nothing had happened he had grown careless. He had not yet learned that often the most dangerous time is when there is no sign of danger. Now Little Stripes was paying for that carelessness.

Twice he had been terribly frightened, once by Reddy Fox and again by Broadwing the Hawk. By sheer good luck he had escaped. He was caught by this dreadful person in a black coat. He wasn't much hurt, only scratched a little. But this dreadful stranger was playing with him, pretending to let him go, then pouncing on him again. It was fun for Black Pussy, but there was no fun in it for Little Stripes. For Little Stripes there was only terror.

Black Pussy tossed the little Chipmunk in the air. He knocked him about, first with one paw and then the other. He picked Little Stripes up in his mouth and pretended to bite him. He put him down and walked off again. Little Stripes tried to steal away. At the last instant he was pounced on. Yes, Black Pussy was having fun, cruel fun. When he grew tired of playing he would kill the little Chipmunk and take him home to show what a smart hunter he was.

Little Stripes was hopeless now. He didn't even try to steal away when Black Pussy turned his head. Little Stripes was rapidly becoming helpless as well as hopeless. There was a rustling in the bushes. The little Chipmunk didn't notice it, but Black Pussy heard it. He turned his head as he looked and listened. For a moment or two he quite forgot Little Stripes. Now was the latter's chance to steal away. He didn't. He didn't even try. You see, he had tried so many times before and failed that he felt it was useless.

In a moment Prickly Porky the Porcupine shuffled out of the bushes. He shuffled straight toward Black Pussy. Black Pussy drew back. He snarled and spat. Prickly Porky paid no attention. He shuffled straight on. Black Pussy was forced to jump to one side. By that time he had forgotten the little Chipmunk.

The J. ROBERTO WOOD STUDIOS reopen September 5 at 617 Fort Street in Victoria. Mr. and Mrs. Wood have established a fine reputation since coming here from the east, as the foremost in VOICE, its expression and interpretation. Singing is the most natural expression of all, and the person with a vocal gift wants to share through performance, that urge to give of himself.

If you are interested in a choir we can place you whether it be church or the recreation of a choral group. Our pupils are making themselves felt in leading parts in singing organizations. This is a healthy state. Our work in the Musical Festivals has brought the singing and choral classes to a higher order.

Each student's individual needs are considered, and their studies planned accordingly. For detailed information phone B 6650.

Pakistan Engineers Visit B.C.

Three leading engineers from Pakistan will be studying the structure of roads and bridges throughout British Columbia for two weeks of this month, gaining practical knowledge which they will put to use in their own country during the next five years.

The highways and bridge mission is to be in this province from Sept. 10 to 20. The members will confer with B.C. Works Minister E. C. Carson and top members of his staff in Victoria on Sept. 18.

B.C.E. Shelves Plan For Propane Gas Fuel

Plans for possible conversion of B.C. Electric Railway Co. buses to use propane gas fuel have been set aside, officials say. The company has no assurance that long-range fuel cost would be less than that of gasoline.

Five North Vancouver buses have used propane gas successfully for the past year.

The commission will comprise Lieut.-Col. S. H. Khan, commander of the Royal Pakistan Engineers; D. M. Khanzada, senior executive engineer of the combined public works department of the Northwest Frontier Province, and M. A. Waheed, superintending engineer in the public works department of the Punjab.

The three are making a tour of Canada under the technical assistance program of the Colombo plan for the economic development of south and south-east Asia.

The Colombo Plan envisages total expenditures for its six-year program of more than $5,000,000. The cost is to be shared proportionately by Canada, the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand.

The project was conceived to help raise the living standards of the recipient countries, and establish good will and closer economic ties between the new nations of the East and the participating Commonwealth countries.

By BILL WALKER

Despite the fact that Ontario this year won its 12th Willingdon Cup in 19 years, British Columbia golfers need take their respective hats off to no one if play in the Canadian Amateur golf championship which concludes today at Ottawa.

British Columbia Open champion Walt McElroy reached the high point for the western contingent when he gained today's final against the veteran Phil Farley, who was winning his first major championship before McElroy was out of the rattle stage.

Actually, McElroy's performance could be classed as the "comeback of the year" in the Canadian world. Out of the competitive game for the past two years because of a foot infection and also for business reasons, McElroy has just about made his return complete. The Canadian title would be the ultimate for the soft-spoken mainland star.

Bill Mawhinney need offer no excuses for his defeat. Farley has long been ranked one of the greats in the Dominion and the Ontario veteran made it clear that he would let nothing stand in his way in his search for the long-sought bauble that has eluded him down through 19 of his 39 years.

And there's an odd quirk to today's finals if you're at all pessimistic. Farley first knocked over Mawhinney; yesterday it was Laurie Roland, the brilliant Canadian junior champion and today—well, they say had luck comes in threes, Will McElroy be the third?

Roland, who was the surprise of the tourney, first for his terrific comeback in winning the junior title, and secondly for gaining the semifinals, upset the caddy cart even more when he was named along with Mawhinney and McElroy to Canada's eight-man team which will play the U.S. reps. The match will take place at Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 7.

It will be recalled that Roland also went to the semis in 1949 when he lost out to Dick Chapman, the champion, on the 18th green. McElroy himself was in the quarter-finals and the semis in his two previous appearances in the amateur classic.

Other members of the Canadian team include Farley, Allan Boes of Winnipeg, Nick Westlock, Windsor; Gerry Keselring, Kitchener; and Donald Doe, Granby, Que.

Ross "Sandy" Somerville, the only Canadian ever to win a U.S. title, is officially the non-playing captain, but Somerville will play if the need arises.

Bob Fleming did as well as could be expected—losing on the 20th hole is no disgrace. In a wire to George Vale, Bob said he "wasn't playing too well" but nevertheless acquitted himself well in the Willingdon cup competition.

Here's a puzzler: Which comes first, the fore or the ball?

The facts as outlined in a recent news dispatch concerning a court complaint which was the outcome of the incident follow:

The witness said he was addressing the ball about 20 yards from the green when a ball buzzed his ear. A faint "fore" came about the same time. Said golfer retrieved the ball and blasted it back at his tormentor. Both men advanced. Words flew. Punctures were thrown. The witness got a cut lip.

Simple battery was the complaint. But to golfers throughout the world, much more hangs in the balance.

If Bob Fleming returns in time this Sunday's button match will see Bob paired up with his old junior sidekick, John Merriman, against Bill McColl and Vic Painter. And if not, the match goes next week.

Colin Rutherford and Tommy Harris will assist to the Ronnie McLeod, assistant pro, Oak Bay ahead his tee shot on the 8th hole Wednesday. . . It is also rumored that a famous movie director played at Oak Bay last week . . . but the big question is "Did the Victoria Insurance Agents' Association have hole-in-one insurance when they had their annual get-together Friday?" If a hole-in-one had been scored, that would have been one for the books . . . like being caught with your premium showing. . .

Locke Forced To Take Second Spot

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. (AP)—Dapper Charlie Ward won the Lotus 72-hole pro golf tournament Friday on the 6,270-yard Stoneham layout with an aggregate score of 69-68-65-68—270. South African Bobby Locke, who was in a three-way tie with Dick Burton and Bill Hancock for first place at the end of 36 holes, finished second with 273.

BRITISH WRITERS SEE TROUBLE FOR TURPIN

LONDON (AP)—British boxing writers, who saw the controversial Kid Gavilan-Billy Graham fight in New York Wednesday, have told the home folks they are worried over what may happen to Randy Turpin's brand new middleweight title.

Almost to a man, the British writers thought challenger Grahah. was entitled to the decision. The complicated scoring system used in New York has the writers perplexed and worried.

One writer cabled that "Turpin will have to do more than merely outbox (Ray) Robinson."

In New York, bouts are scored by rounds and points.

The British employ only one official—the referee—to judge fights. He says who won and the rules prevent him from telling how he figured it out.

YANKS SIT BACK AS

Browns Deal Indians Blow

Generally, St. Louis Browns are used as stepping stones by pennant-contending teams in the American League but that's not the case when Cleveland Indians are the opposition. The Browns, hibernating in last place and 40 games off the pace, helped knock the Indians out of the 1950 race and last night dealt the tribe a staggering blow in the current flag chase.

St. Louis defeated the Indians 6-3 to dump them one game behind the idle New York Yankees. The victory was the Browns' fifth in 16 meetings with Cleveland.

Jim McDonald, with help from Satchel Paige, stopped the Indians before 23,088 fans at Cleveland. Paige, a former Indian, rushed to the rescue in the ninth after the first two men up reached base.

Paige walked pinch-hitter Early Wynn to load the sacks but old Satch nailed Dale Mitchell on a foul, got Bob Aliva to force George Stinewiss at second and struck out Larry Doby to end the game.

The Browns pounded Bob Lemon, gunning for his eighth straight and 17 victory, and Lou Brissie for 11 hits. Hank Arrighi was the Browns' big gun, driving in four runs on a homer and two singles.

The Yanks, off the last two days, resume action today with the Senators in Washington. In the only other game in the majors yesterday Chicago White Sox blanked Detroit Tigers 2-0. Saul Rogovin, a former Tiger, limited the Bengals to seven hits.

City Side To Host Mainland Cricketers

Highlight of the holiday week-end for cricket enthusiasts will be the intercity match Monday between Victoria all-stars and Vancouver. The Labor Day game is the second of a home and home series, the first of which was won by Vancouver. The game will be played at Beacon Hill oval starting at 10:30 and will be an all-day match.

BOOSTERS DETERMINED Soccer Probe Planned

Big things are in store for local soccer fans if plans of the Victoria United Soccer Club materialize. The club held its first meeting of the year recently and came away resolved to better soccer or go down in the attempt.

Election of officers for the year was deferred to a later date but two important topics were discussed.

The first item was the poor showing of soccer in the Victoria and District League last year. The Booster club feels that as a result of the low calibre of football played in the V. and D. loop, soccer as a whole not only suffered but received a bad name.

It has been suggested that the poor standard in the lower leagues last season had a marked effect on the attendance of games of the United. Booster club officials plan to have a meeting between officials of the Victoria and District League, delegates of the United and members of the Booster organization to air any grievances that may exist and generally thrash out all problems pertaining to local soccer.

The second venture of the Boosters will be to approach the executive of the United and seek an explanation on the status of Charlie Jones.

Jones is an ex-member of the Tottenham Hotspurs of the British first division soccer league and is now residing in Victoria. He signed on with the United last season but saw only limited action. He is still on the United's books and the Boosters want to know just how much he will be used this season and why he was not used in more games last season.

VIC'S FAN CLUB

There is a new fan club for the Victoria United Soccer Club. The club is open to all who are interested in soccer and who wish to receive a copy of the club's newsletter. The club is open to all who are interested in soccer and who wish to receive a copy of the club's newsletter.

'If Furmston's Arm Holds Up . . .'

Here it is. The first official photograph of the big right arm of John Furmston, ace pitcher of Butler's Aces. Furmston has hurled so many innings in leading Aces to the city championship that the official league statistician hasn't caught up with the figures yet. At any rate, Furmston will be at his usual spot when Aces host Vancouver Girodays in the first game of the B.C. finals at Central Park tonight at 5:30. And if you're around Central Park Sunday at 1 when the second game starts, don't be surprised to see Furmston out on the hill again. Just to make sure the arm does hold up, Furmston had trainer George Wilkison of the A's "work it over" last night.

MAPES SQUEEZED BUT THE BALL WASN'T THERE

CLEVELAND (AP)—"You people in Cleveland have some darned good ball players," St. Louis Browns' manager Zack Taylor insisted today.

Zack, of course, was not talking about the Indians. He meant one of the fans in the rightfield stands. He is positive one of them caught Bob Lemon's home run ball in the seventh inning last night.

Cliff Mapes was standing in right field when Lemon smashed one. According to Mapes and Taylor, Mapes stood against the wall, and without jumping, put the glove in the line of flight.

When he squeezed, they said, nothing was there, but at that moment a "human hand reached out."

Grid Clubs Off To Real Action Today

Football players across Canada donned shoulder pads and pulled on helmets today as they went into the first real football week-end of the season.

In the east, Toronto Argonauts and Balmby Beach were set for a heavy week-end. The Argos open against coach Clem Crowe's Ottawa Rough Riders this afternoon in Ottawa and face the powerful Hamilton Tiger Cats in Hamilton Monday.

The Argos' farm club, the Balmby Beachers, face a refurbished Windsor Royals team in Toronto this afternoon and Monday they move to Sarnia for a tussle with Sarnia Imperials.

In the west, Calgary Stampede and Edmonton Eskimos are set for two skirmishes, tonight at Calgary and Monday night in Edmonton. Winnipeg Blue Bombers will line up against Saskatchewan Roughriders at Regina Monday afternoon.

Olympic Paddle Trials Sunday

MOONEY'S BAY, Ont. (CP)—Some of the country's top paddlers will compete Sunday for the right to represent Canada at the 1952 Olympic Games in Helsinki, Finland.

The trials will be run off on a smooth stretch of water that forms part of the placid Rideau canal system. The site, four miles from the heart of Ottawa, was chosen several years ago as a permanent location for the Canadian Canoe Association's annual Dominion championship regatta.

British Chess Champion

SWANSEA, Wales (Reuters)—Ernst Klein, 41-year-old lecturer in mathematics, won the British chess championship on Friday. Klein scored 8 1/2 points out of a possible 11 to finish half a point ahead of the defending titleholder, R. J. Broadbent.

WEBSTER TO RETIRE

Cougars Seek Defence Aid

One of the main objects of Cougar owner Lester Patrick's visit to Montreal next week will be defensemen, not one, but possibly two rearwards if the deal can be negotiated successfully.

The shortage in this department of the defending P.C.H.L. champion Cougars is caused with the announcement of the intended retirement of Don Webster, a member of last year's club.

Webster, who lives in California, has a good position in television and, being on the long end of 27 years and possibly near the end of the hockey trail, figures it's about time he settled down to stable employment.

"We are not including Webster in our plans for this year," general manager Fred Hutchinson said, "thus the need for defensemen."

It was also disclosed today that Joe Lepine had been reassigned to the Cougars from Montreal Canadiens, bringing to 10 the number of last year's Cougars who are expected to report to training camp at Saskatoon Sept. 20.

Joe Medynski, Joe Evans and Jack McIntyre have signed their 1951-52 contracts, but Flori Goegan is still classed as a holdout. Nothing has been heard from goalie Jerry Cotoir who is busy playing baseball in Quebec where the Granby club is fighting for the pennant.

A change in previously announced plans for exhibition games was also announced by Hutchinson.

Under the new schedule the Cougars will play Saskatoon on Sept. 29 and Oct. 1 and at Edmonton Oct. 3. A game is tentatively arranged for Regina on Sept. 27 or 28. Cougars open the P.C.H.L. season at Vancouver Oct. 5.

"Now you're sure it's just bears, cougars and timber wolves around here—no mice?"

LABOR DAY FEATURE

Starry Entry Seen In Cordova Bay Regatta

Beautiful Cordova Bay will be the setting Monday as the annual Labor Day regatta under the joint sponsorship of the Victoria Inboard-Outboard Association and the Eagles Bugle Band holds the attention of holiday pleasure seekers.

One of the high points on the program, which will include events in the runabout, 135-cu.-in. and 48-cu.-in. hydroplane classes, will be when George Baldwin puts his last year's champion Misbehavin' II on the line against Brock Robertson's Ye Hudy in the 135-cu.-in. division.

Bob Watson's Saw-Sea is also expected to have a battle this year against two boats, as yet untitled—Will Gouge's Little Toot and Pat Cooper's It'll Do. Ken Cameron's Hot Canary is also rated a threat.

Boats coming from Vancouver include: G. L. Wood's Evelyn E., Norm Gibson's Balboa, Arn Walker's Thunderbolt and George Hansen's Sea Bird in the runabout class, and Jim Hutchinson's Teason III (Canadian Pacific Coast champion) in the 135-cu.-in. division. Others are also expected.

The program starts at 1.

Caps Look To A's For Help

Flag Race May Hinge On Spokane Visit Here

As hateful as it sounds, Victoria Athletics are today in a position to help Vancouver Capilanos to the Western International League pennant.

But they'll have to be awfully sharp to do the trick as the league-leading Spokane Indians demonstrated their objections last night in 6-2 fashion at Athletic Park.

All the A's have to do, nevertheless, as they themselves have no further monetary interest in the proceedings, is to knock off Alan Strange's warriors twice today while the Caps are doing likewise to the Salem Senators.

CRUCIAL SERIES

This would send Spokane into Vancouver for Monday's Labor Day double bill but half a game on top with three on tap in Capilano territory.

Then it would be up to the Caps, who last night kept pace with the tribe by whipping the Senators 11-0.

As it stands now, if the Indians and Caps are both successful in today's ventures, the Caps would have to win all three of those games to unfurl the flag, while the A's would face relegation to sixth or seventh place.

There won't be any playoffs this year, but the first four teams will share in bonus money—money that was lost for keeps by the A's last night.

IMPOSSIBLE NOW

Mathematically it's impossible now for the A's to catch the Wapateche Chiefs. The last faint flicker of flame died about 10:30 last night as the Western Union ticker tapped out the fatal message: Wenatchee 8, Tri-City 7.

But the season isn't over yet. Following today's games the A's meet Salem Senators in a real double bill Monday starting at 1:30 and then wind it up for good on Tuesday night with the same Senators as guests.

Last night it was Dick Bishop who inserted the plug as he braved his way through an eight hitter while Jim Hedgcock was giving up 11 in a losing game. The Spokes sewed it up tight in the eighth inning after jumping off to a three-run lead in the fourth and adding a fourth marker in the fifth frame. Singles by Ken Richardson, Jim

GRITTY PERFORMANCE

Savitt Sets Sights On Triple Net Crown

By GAYLE TALBOT
FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Dick Savitt, still limping from a painful leg infection, faced perhaps the most severe test of his tennis career today in a quarter-final match against Budge Patty of Los Angeles in the United States singles championships.

The tall star from Orange, N.J., was able to whip Straight Clark of Los Angeles on sheer power in their postponed match yesterday, but against a player of Patty's class one needs to run fast and a whole lot, and there was doubt in the minds of many observers that Dick would be up to it today.

However, Savitt was grimly determined to give it all he had. With the dream of every tennis player—victory—in the Australian, Wimbledon and American championships—within sight, the ball pounder from Cornell couldn't afford to let a mere leg stop him at the post.

In the other quarter-final, Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills was paired against Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, who upset Ken McGregor of Australia in the previous round.

It was still possible that there will be a repetition of last year's final between Flam and Art Larsen, though not many thought it possible.

Larsen yesterday eliminated 37-year-old Gardner Mulloy of Miami.

The defending champion's biggest test will come tomorrow when he tackles Frank Sedgman of Australia in the semifinals. The Aussie is playing the finest tennis he ever has displayed here.

Sedgman disposed of dynamite Tony Trabert of Cincinnati in five sets yesterday.

Lefty Tournament At Marine Drive

Southpaw golfers will get their chance Sept. 14 when the Marine Drive golf course hosts the annual B.C. left-handers' golf championship.

The tourney will be a 36-hole medal play competition. The final day for entries is Sept. 12, but post entries will be accepted. Entries should be mailed to Willard Gilmour, 2978 West 21, Vancouver.

UPLANDS GOLF

Winners of the women's two-ball foursome play at Uplands golf course yesterday were Mrs. J. Riddell and Mrs. Coe. Mrs. N. Bamford and Mrs. G. Pattinson were runners-up.

Construction Industry Busy On $7,000,000 Projects Here

Fine Weather, No Serious Strikes
Mean Good Progress In Expansion

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

Saws are whining and hammers pounding on construction valued at close to $7,000,000 in the southern Vancouver Island area.

Public buildings, hospital additions, schools, a $3,000,000 government housing project at Belmont and Victoria's $2,000,000 post office are in varying stages of construction.

Construction activity, traditionally good in the summer months, has been excellent in the city of Victoria this August, according to City Building Inspector J. W. Oosterink. The same situation is reflected in the whole south Island area.

NO HOLD-UPS SEEN

"There has been fine weather and no serious strikes," said Mr. Oosterink of the city. "Timber is coming in and I see no hold-ups."

Northern Construction Co. reports the new Post Office should be completed about March of next year.

The new administrative wing at St. Joseph's Hospital, costing $500,000, is about two-thirds completed, according to Sullivan Construction Company.

Just started are the B.C. Forest Products Plywood plant on Gorge Road, to cost $350,000; Canadian National Institute for the Blind building on Blanshard, at $93,000, and the city's new welfare building back of Spencer House, at $100,000.

The actual building to house the plywood plant will be erected within two months. This does not include machinery installation.

Commonwealth Construction Co. plans to have the C.N.I.B. building ready in four months.

and George Farmer Construction Co. figures on February for completion of the city welfare building.

A three-month hold-up on steel delayed the Royal Jubilee Hospital laboratory construction, but completion is expected in two months.

Commonwealth Construction Co., which began a $3,000,000 contract for 371 housing units for navy personnel at Belmont in 1950, hopes to wind up the job by the year's end. There is just finishing work to do now.

SCHOOL BUILDING
In Saanich and Esquimalt major building is on schools. In most cases "last nails are being hammered" now to allow for school opening Tuesday.

The $85,000 Strawberry Vale School, at Delmar and Hastings, and $60,000 Cadboro Bay Elementary are in this category. Completed is an $8,000 annex to McKenzie Avenue School. In Esquimalt work is still under way on the $370,000 addition to Esquimalt High, by Luney Bros. & Hamilton. It will not be ready for school opening.

Just completed is a $65,000 warehouse on Viewfield Road in Esquimalt.

Work is still proceeding on the addition to the Veteran's Hospital, the Normal School, and a $25,000 control building for the B.C. Electric, all in Saanich.

Farmer Construction Co. hopes to complete a $40,000 subdivision of four new homes in Oak Bay in another month.

COMPLETION DATES
Commonwealth Construction Co. plans to have the C.N.I.B. building ready in four months.

New $2,000,000 post office to be finished next March.

Good start made on $350,000 plywood plant on Gorge Road.

HURRICANE TOLL SAID 413

MEXICO CITY (UP)—The death toll from the recent disastrous hurricane and flood rose to at least 413 today as rescue parties in isolated areas reported new devastation.

Manuel Jimenez, a federal official who headed one party inland from Tampico, said more than 200 persons died when the hurricane and floods erased the towns of Rayon, Tierra Blanca and El Limon.

The report pushed the hurricane's toll to 257 in Mexico, 154 in Jamaica and two off the Texas coast.

Three Victoria Girls First In Air Reserve

Three Victoria girls, the first Vancouver Island women to join the R.C.A.F. Reserve, were taken on strength today by No. 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Unit. They are:

Miss Lucie Charpentier, 23, of 1424 Harrison Street, employed by the R.C.M.P., who joined as a supply technician;

Miss Joan Mitchell, 18, of 1857 Crescent Road, employed by the provincial department of health, who joined as a clerk-stenographer;

Miss Ann Mackintosh, 20, of 155 Passmore Street, employed by the Bank of Montreal, who will train as fighter control operator.

Air force headquarters in Ottawa gave permission today for reserve units to recruit women. Previously, recruiting was restricted to men.

SAME AS MEN

All three of the Victoria girls will begin their service careers with the rank of A.W. 2 (Airwoman, Second Class). Their parade pay will be the same as that for men of equivalent rank. Two parades will equal one day's pay.

F.O. Dick Higgins, public relations officer for the Victoria reserve unit, said there are vacancies for up to about 40 women, as well as men.

First parade of the unit for this season will be held on Friday evening, Sept. 6, at 7.30, in the Begg Building, now the reserve air force building. All ranks will parade in blue uniforms.

Again Tighten Up Permits For Fires

Owing to the continued dryness since Monday night's rainfall, fire departments of Victoria and district have again tightened up permits on rubbish burning, it was learned today.

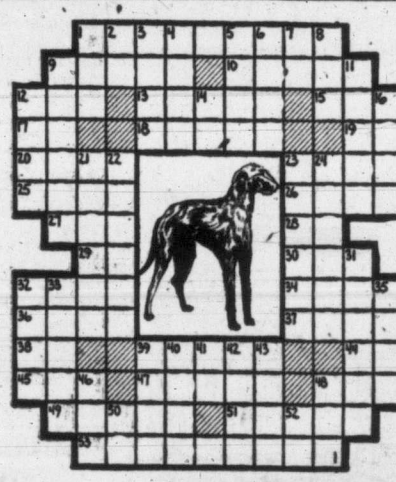

In Saanich, Central Saanich and Oak Bay no fire permits are being issued until fire hazard conditions ease. Citizens of the city are being allowed fires but only by permission from the fire department on a day-to-day basis. Restricted permits are still being issued by the Esquimalt fire department.

THE FROGMEN

Dominion: At 1.08, 3.11, 5.14, 7.17, 9.25.
Cast: Richard Widmark, Dana Andrews, Gary Merrill.
Directed by Lloyd Bacon. Story by Oscar Millard.

No false heroics about this one. It is a taut, sharp-edged drama of danger and courage which does for the navy what "Battle of Britain" did for the army. Nor does the fact that it happens to be the U.S. navy narrow its appeal, for the qualities on which it is built—hazard, misadventure, duty, humor, courage—are typical of all navies and of all bodies of men thrown together under stress of war.

"The Frogmen" follows the adventures of a typical American U.D.T.—underwater demolition team—in action against the Japs in the second World War. This team of tough-living, likeable men is under the command of Lieutenant-Commander Lawrence (Richard Widmark)—a quiet-natured, curt-mannered officer who has unenviably stepped into the shoes of a dead hero, the team's popular previous C.O. called Cassidy.

Lawrence is all cold discipline and efficiency: Flannigan (Dana Andrews) is the traditional hero—red-blooded, fearless, strangely gentle in a crisis. And both Widmark and Andrews play these parts with a pin-sharp focus that lifts this picture 'way up among the outstanding films of 1951.

The naval operations themselves are sickeningly dangerous. The ruthless ditching of the men in the sea (and apparent abandoning of them until their mission is accomplished) is shown with newsreel thoroughness and roughness. And there are some exciting moments of undersea photography—especially when knife-armed Japs come slithering down into the deep water—that must have meant merciless hours of exacting camera work.

Dialogue, here and there, is a little inaudible, but probably no more so than it would have been in actuality. It is, in fact, hard to believe that it is not a record of an actual adventure that is being unfolded.

The plot, on-paper, would look a trifle thin. But it is one of those rare stories that are pure cinema. It couldn't have hit the bull's eye any other way. Besides, there's another fact which lifts it 'way over the heads of all the other war pictures. There is NO love scene dragged into the plot. Come to that, there isn't a woman in the picture. Not even in the distance!

'Frogman' Faces Death

Far beneath the surface of the water, a navy "frogman" (right) comes to death grips with the enemy in 20th Century-Fox's "The Frogman," now playing at the Dominion Theatre. Co-starring Richard Widmark, Dana Andrews and Gary Merrill, the picture deals with the exploits of underwater demolition teams.

Advices Reds' Recognition

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas today advocated United States recognition of Communist China as a means of smashing China's political ties with Soviet Russia. Douglas, just back from an expedition along the southern frontiers of both Russia and China, said U.S. recognition of the Peiping regime would give the free world "a real political victory."

BABY SITTER SLAYS CHARGE

RENO, Nev. (UP) — Police today plect together the hysterical story of a wild-eyed, 37-year-old baby sitter who confessed she strangled a four-year-old boy because he "twisted my wrist."

Mrs. Magdelene Teresa Hamlik was arrested yesterday and claimed to be a British war bride from Streatham, England. She told police she punished the boy by ramming his pyjamas down his throat.

"He will never do that again," she said, referring to the wrist-twisting incident.

Many Changes In Teaching Staffs

New Principals Confer

Three new principals appointed in the Greater Victoria school system discuss their new job with Senior Municipal Inspector J. F. K. English. Left to right, H. C. O'Donnell, principal of Cadboro Bay School; Mr. English, E. V. Davies, principal of Gordon Head School, and W. J. Orchard, Burnside School.

William McMichael, formerly principal of George Jay School, will be the new principal of Central Junior High School, succeeding Arthur Hunkin, who retired last June, and Arthur Jones, formerly principal of Burnside School, has been named to succeed W. H. Wilson, retiring principal of Sir James Douglas School, senior municipal inspector J. F. K. English said today.

Other appointments for preparation of the new school year starting next week include: Harry O'Donnell, formerly a staff member of S. J. Willis Junior High School, principal of the new Cadboro Bay School; Wilfred Orchard, formerly vice-principal of South Park School, as principal of Burnside School.

Elved Davies, formerly a teacher at Mackenzie Avenue School, has been appointed principal of Gordon Head School. Transfer of principals are listed as: T. Reginald MacKay from Tolmie School to George Jay School; Thomas M. Curteis from Mackenzie Avenue School to Tolmie School; Walter J. Kitley from Gordon Head School to Mackenzie Avenue School.

Vice-principal appointments are listed as: J. Edward Tait, formerly a staff member of Lamson Street School, moves to South Park School; William S. Cheter, formerly of Victoria West School staff, moves to Sir James Douglas School; Herbert J. Manson, appointed vice-principal at Quadra Elementary School where he had formerly been a teacher.

R. V. James, formerly vice-principal of Sir James Douglas School, is transferred as vice-principal to George Jay School.

Other appointments are listed: Miss Amy L. Vye, formerly on staff of Quadra Elementary School, to Kingston Street Primary School; Mr. Gilbert Yard, from Willows Elementary School to Cedar Hill Primary, and Miss Edna Cauti to be acting teacher-in-charge at Beacon Hill School.

Miscellaneous staff transfers at the elementary school level involved some 30 to 40 teachers, Mr. English said.

Only Sunshine Can Aid Crops

WINNIPEG (CP) — Warm, sunny weather is the only answer to western farmers' problems at the present time, the weekly reports of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways said today.

Further general rains across the prairies during the last week have delayed crop maturity in districts where crops are late, and have brought harvesting operations practically to a standstill in earlier sections, such as Manitoba and southern Saskatchewan.

The C.P.R. said Manitoba has threshed 5 per cent of its wheat and 7 per cent of its oats and barley. For Alberta and Saskatchewan, the report showed little headway made with threshing and combining.

Britons, Japanese Sign Trade Pact

TOKYO (AP) — Britain and Japan today signed a new and less restrictive agreement on payments in sterling or trade purposes.

The agreement, reached after several months of negotiations, includes Hongkong for the first time.

An occupation official said the over-all effect of the agreement was to afford a larger trading area, to the benefit of both Japan and the sterling countries.

THE ROYAL EDINBURGHES

(This is the last in a series of articles on Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip.)

By MARGARET SAVILLE

Close to Princess Elizabeth wherever she goes in Canada will be a pretty young woman wearing a cypher brooch on her shoulder, a diamond E on pink silk ribbon. She will be the Princess' lady-in-waiting wearing her badge of office which was formally given to her by the King when she was first appointed.

Her duties are varied, calling for a high degree of tact, discretion and personal charm—and again discretion. She attends to the Princess' correspondence, receives her visitors, answers her telephone, goes out shopping for her and at functions she sees that her Royal mistress meets whom she wishes to meet and that the people she doesn't are deftly steered away from her path. Often, too, she carries highly personal messages from the Princess to relatives and friends. For all this, technically "on call" for 24 hours of the day during her term of office, she is paid 500 pounds a year by Princess Elizabeth plus a small allowance for her clothes.

Has Four Ladies-In-Waiting

Princess Elizabeth has four ladies-in-waiting who serve her at Clarence House for two weeks and then take four weeks off on a rota system. To accompany her across the Atlantic she has chosen the Hon. Mrs. Andrew Elphinstone, who is a little older than herself, with her dark brown hair swept back from her forehead and an extremely gentle expression. She has known Princess Elizabeth since they played together as children when she was Jean Frances Hambro. She married Capt. C. V. Gibb of the Grenadier Guards who was killed in action in Holland in 1944. Then in 1946 the widow became the wife of the Hon. Andrew C. V. Elphinstone whose mother, Lady Rose Elphinstone, is the Queen's sister. The Elphinstones live modestly in a little country house in Surrey and she travels up to London to her duties at Clarence House by train and bus.

Sometimes she takes along her small daughter, blonde Rosemary Elizabeth aged four, who plays with Prince Charles and Princess Anne while their respective mothers are engaged. One of the many points Mrs. Elphinstone must always remember is that she must never wear colors that clash with the Princess' clothes. So in public she generally dresses in dark brown or navy blue to harmonize with the warm pastels and greens and yellows Princess Elizabeth usually prefers.

TREASURER SINCE 1947

Another member of the Royal party, in official charge of all the arrangements, will be Lieut. General Sir Frederick Arthur Montague Browning, K.B.E. late of the Grenadier Guards, probably the most famous regiment of the British Army which has Princess Elizabeth as its Colonel-in-Chief. Tall and distinguished, the 55-year-old soldier has been the controller and treasurer of the Royal Edinburgh's household since 1947. He literally holds their purse, paying all their bills, engaging and supervising their staff and servants and attending to all the myriad details of their public and personal affairs. Princess Elizabeth always makes a special point of going over the monthly account-books with him to ensure she is not being extravagant. She does not think that just because she is a Royal lady she should pay more than proper dues for any goods or services. The General is married to novelist Daphne du Maurier and when he is not on duty, he joins her at their big old-world house near Fowey in Cornwall and there they sail and swim and fish with their two teenage daughters.

As equerry the Duke of Edinburgh will be attended by a former naval officer, Lieutenant the Scotland Yard detective who is responsible for the Princess' safety, co-operating with the local police everywhere she goes and never allowing her to leave his own sight when she is out-of-doors.

PRINCE'S VALET

Prince Philip will take his valet in the party and he will be responsible for all the baggage. This will number around 100 pieces — the Princess' wide-skirted satin and chiffon gowns cannot be packed in small space and then Prince Philip requires various full-dress uniforms with all their ceremonial accessories. Some new trunks and cases have been ordered for the tour. Others will be sent across to Clarence House from the attic storerooms at Buckingham Palace which hold all manner of incidental things which Royalty may need in the course of their jobs from time to time. The Queen still has the outsize trunks, painted in grey and red, that were made for her own transatlantic trip in 1939 and these will probably be used yet again by Princess Elizabeth.

It is all creating great interest in London where the Royal Edinburghs are so well known; people feel a personal association with their activities. Millions, young and old, will be following the progress of their journey overseas with just the same close attention, as will the King and Queen and waiting to welcome them home again when they step ashore at Liverpool in November.

Because children of 12 or so are pretty conventional people, we've been hearing the usual moans and groans this week about school re-opening Tuesday. The kids think they have to follow the routine. Going back to class, they've been led to believe, is pure agony. That's the story they've picked up and they seem to be stuck with it.

We couldn't agree with them less. Not that we're throwing that "best years of your life" slogan around. Our reaction is purely personal. School re-opening is heaven. Kids on vacation we've had two months of them, and we want relief. What ever we may think when our tax bills arrive, the adults in our family right now figure teachers are worth every penny they're paid. We love 'em. We're ready to entrust our most precious possessions to them. We're letting them have our children, and they're welcome.

YOU CAN PLAN your whole life around your children. You can save for their education, deny yourself the small luxuries to see that they have a few extra enjoyments. You can cherish them. You can point to them, like the Spartan mothers, and say: "These are my jewels." Come the first Tuesday after Labor Day you're happy to let someone else wear the jewelry.

At this time of the year, you can even understand the attitude of a friend of mine who sold toys in a local department store. Five and a half days a week in working hours he'd talk kindly to parents and pat children on the head. At 5 every afternoon he'd walk into the changing room, put on his coat and mutter, "Kids, I hate 'em."

So we'll turn them over to the teachers on Tuesday morning, turn them over gaily and with confidence. Wonder how the teachers feel?

MY FRIENDS at the lake tell me about a California visitor up there. He's been driving over a bridge to the West Arm frequently during the past two weeks, and he noticed the number of nails that had worked their way up in the wooden span. Finally, he couldn't stand the sight of those nails any more. He parked near the bridge approach, where a highway repair gang was working, got out of his car, took out his own hammer and drove the nails back into the wood. The repair gang offered no comment.

JACKIE THOMPSON, his father tells me, pulled in a couple of humpbacks and a spring off the Oak Bay end of Trial Island the other night, and my neighbor, Harry Ward, caught a couple of grise. Gerry Edge keeps waiting for a calm evening to go fishing and Harry Turner's getting a lot of fresh air when he takes his boat out.

Me, I've just bought a new bucket fly with two hooks. It's a cinch to catch me twice as many salmon as I landed last year. I know my mathematics. Twice nothing is nothing. It's a red-white-and-blue number. That'll look swell in my lapel during the Royal Visit.

Work Point Soldier Attacked By Zooters

A Work Point soldier reported today he was attacked by a group of "zoot suiters" in a Yates Street cafe late Friday night.

Cpl. M. Halldorson, R.C.A.S.C., complained to police the youths in "drape" dress cut his face in the fight.

One must have grace and dignity, according to a fashion expert, to wear new frocks effectively. Well, police will be poised.

In four more months comes the year when girls should look before they leap.

It takes 18 to 20 years to develop all the bones and muscles of our feet. And then we walk all over them.

Record Travel Seen For Holiday Week-End

Air Traffic Extra Heavy

By DAVE STOCK

The holiday bug flitted among Victorians today and several thousand citizens reacted by packing a suitcase and heading for Vancouver or the United States.

The epidemic of "long week-ends" broke out Friday: It was discovered and immediately reported by travel men. Obviously contagious, the number of reported cases soared today.

Those familiar with this type of holiday complaints were confident the thing would be in check by Sunday, although they predicted strong reaction Monday, when those affected would be cured and would seek to return to their homes.

At Patricia Bay airport Friday, 1,230 persons passed through Trans-Canada Air Lines' passenger gate. Eighteen flights to Vancouver carried 504 travelers to the mainland—many of them to take in the Pacific National Exhibition—and a similar number of incoming planes brought 500 persons to the island.

Four planes to Seattle carried 112 passengers to the United States and brought back nearly as many.

C.P.R. TAXED

C.P.R. steamship service between here and Vancouver was taxed to capacity Friday and today. The service is operating only two sailings a day each way, instead of the usual three. Ss. Princess Joan was taken off the run Thursday to go to Prince Rupert.

Vancouver Island Coach Lines, carrying some persons to up-island vacation spots and others to make connection with steamship sailings from Nanaimo to Vancouver, reported heavy business.

EXTRA BUSES

Two extra buses were required Friday morning to transport Vancouver-bound week-enders to the Nanaimo shipping terminal and another extra section was required this morning.

The bus company expects heavy local service Monday and has a fleet of buses ready to move Victorians wishing to take in either the Saanichton Fall Fair at Saanichton or the speedboat regatta at Cordova Bay.

Big Track Meet At Nanaimo On Labor Day

Victoria Flying "Y" track squad will have 10-man representation at the Native Son's annual track meet at Nanaimo on Labor Day. Included in the Victoria squad will be Harry Mitchell, B.C. 100-yard dash champion for four years, and Raphael Duke, 1951 Dominion 100-yard champion.

Jack Hutchings of Vancouver, member of Canada's 1948 Olympic track team and the 1950 British Empire games team, will run for Vancouver in the quarter and half-mile races. He is present holder of the Dominion quarter-mile championship.

In the women's division Margaret Lightfoot of Vancouver Quadra Club is favored for the 220.

This will be the last year the B.C. championships will be held at the old Nanaimo sport grounds, which is being sold. There will be a new trophy this year, the Seymour Abrams, to be awarded for the high aggregate in the name of one of the founders of the annual meet.

Vet Railman Is Honored

Veteran railroader Robert McKenzie, 2180 Musgrave Street, was honored at a reception Friday night at Crystal Garden by fellow employees and officials of the local E. & N. and the C.P.R. offices, on the occasion of his retirement.

A. J. Cowie, E. & N. superintendent, presented Mr. McKenzie with a purse and an autograph book containing the signatures of those assembled while Mrs. McKenzie was presented with a bouquet of flowers by Miss N. T. Rich, chief clerk of Mr. McKenzie's office.

Mr. McKenzie has been with the company for the past 43 years and has spent the last 15 years as freight agent here. He will be succeeded by A. F. LePage, formerly chief clerk in the Vancouver C.P.R. freight office.

BLUE SKIES FORECAST BY WEATHERMAN FOR WEEK-END

The holiday week-end weather outlook indicates sunny skies, with little change in temperature, Victoria weatherman William Mackie said today.

His forecast is "sunny today and tomorrow," with south-west winds of 20 miles during the afternoons, a high reading for both days of 68, and an estimated overnight low of 50.

There's nothing on the weather map today to indicate rain for this area in the near future. A storm along the Aleutian Island chain is expected to go inland across northern B.C., while a cold air mass moving slowly southward from Canada's arctic regions with its front edge now in the Queen Charlotte Islands area lacks power enough to affect lower Vancouver Island's weather.

Trail 'Milk Strike' Is Watched Here

Victoria area milk producers today watched with interest the progress of a "milk strike" in Trail, where producers have decided to end milk deliveries to dairies until distributors grant a $1.45 per hundredweight increase.

At both Trail and Nelson retail price was boosted three cents to a new price of 25 cents per quart. E. C. Carr, Vancouver, Milk Board chairman, told the Times today that the board has no jurisdiction over the Trail-Nelson area.

"We have the authority to administer that area, but have never been invited to do so," he said. "This might precipitate some action."

He said the board had made no decision yet on the submission of Vancouver Island dairymen for an increase in the producers' price.

Dairymen, meanwhile, although they have not actually threatened to quit the business, have made it known that unless a price increase or some other relief is offered Vancouver Island producers it will not be worthwhile for them to carry on through the winter.

NO PREJUDICE

Burial Ban Couldn't Happen Here

An incident in Sioux City, Iowa, where a cemetery refused burial of a Korean war veteran on grounds that he was not a "Canadian" could not occur in Victoria, where no such rules apply. The city-operated Ross Bay Cemetery offers burial to persons regardless of race, M. Frank Hunter, city clerk, said.

The same applies at Royal Oak Burial Park operated by the Board of Cemetery Trustees of Greater-Victoria on behalf of the city and Saanichton.

"There are no discriminating regulations," said Leonard Treloar, secretary of the board. L. B. Peatt, owner of the private cemetery, Colwood Burial Park, said persons of any race could be buried there, also.

JUST LIKE LONDON'S

Plan Chain Of Office For Victoria Mayor

Victoria mayors of the future may not have to greet visiting dignitaries without a chain of office.

Mayor Percy George, who Friday welcomed the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Denys Lawson, at City Hall, said he himself would provide the first solid gold link.

The Lord Mayor boasted a badge of office 400 years old, but Victoria's mayor was without any distinguishing symbol of office, although the city has been incorporated since 1862. Although he has served since his election in 1944, Mayor George feels that as he does not intend to run again, if successful in the Esquimalt by-election, he is now in a position to moot a "chain of office" for future incumbents.

"A proposal will definitely be brought to council before the end of the year," he said.

The matter has been under discussion between himself and City Manager Cecil Wyatt, with the latter preparing a report on the legal and technical aspects of the mayoral chain, Mayor George said.

"I am fully in favor of a mayor's chain, but not the robes of office. They are unnecessary."

The mayor said he felt the chain added dignity to the office of chief magistrate of a city and was a distinguishing mark at any public functions.

History of the mayor's chain of Kingston, Ont., is being obtained for reference, according to Mayor George. Some chains are begun by obtaining a solid gold link from each living mayor, he said.

Vancouver Island Loggers Want Open Winter Season

Vancouver Island loggers, and logging operators are hoping that an open winter season will permit them to make up the terrific loss of time and money they have suffered through the summer's severe drought and long forest closure.

Since 1947 most camps on the island, operating mainly at high levels, have been shut down in the winter because of heavy snow that choked roads and made logging impossible.

In the last three winters camps have been closed as long as four months.

It has been estimated that 1,200 loggers, mainly those of the lower wage brackets, have left the industry altogether to seek year-round work.

MILLS AFFECTED

Mills also have been affected by the closure through the resulting log shortage.

In recent weeks many of the smaller mills in forest locations on the island could have taken advantage of special permits to work, as many loggers are doing now, but operators decided not to take a chance on a fire and

Police Probe Theft Of Vacuum Cleaners

City police are investigating the theft of three vacuum cleaners worth $300 from a rented car stolen early today and recovered later.

Michael O'Mara, 2640 Estevan Avenue, reported the cleaners had been in the back seat of the car which Const. F. E. Birt whistle found abandoned.

Dinner This Evening At Maple Bay Inn

Among Victoria dinner party guests at Maple Bay Inn this evening, who will attend the Labor Day regatta at Cowichan Bay, will be Rear-Admiral W. B. Creery and Mrs. Creery, Commodore H. A. Wallace and Mrs. Wallace, Capt. and Mrs. Hobart Molson, Dr. and Mrs. J. Stewart and Capt. and Mrs. W. B. Holms.

To Attend Receptions

Mr. H. P. Hodges and the Hon. Nancy Hodges, will be among the Victorians attending the "at home" at the Vancouver home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Ronald Graham, Monday. They will also be among the guests at the informal buffet dinner party at which Mr. and Mrs. Leon J. Koerner will be hosts in their Osler Avenue home. The occasion in both instances is in complement to the Rt. Hon. Lord Mayor of London, and Lady Lawson, the Sheriffs and the Sword Bearer.

Hosts Last Evening

An informal dance last evening marked the opening of new dining hall at Work Point officers' mess last evening, when Col. A. Perron and officers of the garrison were hosts. It also marked the final party for Canadian Officers' Training Corps Cadets, many of whom will leave the city over the week-end. Buffet refreshment table was laid for more than 200 guests.

Honored At Shower

Miss Marjorie Jones, September bride-elect, was honored when Mrs. Alice Main and Mrs. Cecil Lewis entertained at a miscellaneous shower at the home of the latter, Oliver Street.

Corsage bouquets were received and gifts were presented to Miss Jones in a treasure chest by little Heather Main, dressed in a period gown.

The lace-covered refreshment table was centred with a floral arrangement, and rose-tinted candles.

Guests included Mesdames W. H. Ruffell, A. C. Jones, T. Ruffell, W. J. Main, A. Ball, D. A. O'Brien, D. Ball, E. A. Savage, P. D. Dutoit, W. Davis, G. Duncaft, R. Main, G. Graham, J. Booth, Stuart Smith, D. Taylor, J. A. Beere, Misses N. Burridge, I. Tai, E. Bean, S. Main, G. Main, J. Main, H. Main and Master Ted Lewis.

For Miss Beverley Knott

Miss Dorene Knott honored her sister, Miss Beverley Knott, at a tea this afternoon in Eaton's Victoria Room.

Miss Knott is leaving this week-end for Campbell River, where she has accepted a teaching position.

Presiding at the tea table, centred with summer flowers, was Mrs. Howard Knott.

Guests included Misses Carol Pomeroy, Mavis Barnes, Daphne Collison, Anne Whittington, and Dawn Van Norman.

For September Bride-Elect

Miss Gladys Semochko, September bride-elect, was honored at a miscellaneous shower last evening when Miss Jacqueline Sisson and Mrs. J. Woronicki were co-hostesses at the home of the latter, Darwin Road.

The guest of honor was presented with a corsage bouquet of roses and gifts were concealed in a decorated box.

A chair decorated for the bride-elect was topped with a doll from Japan dressed as a bride.

Guests included Mesdames J. Bradley, J. Woronicki, A. Woronicki, P. Kroening, G. Jones, S. Wigley, H. Burkard, O. Sisson, E. B. Patterson, N. Honey, P. Tindall, B. Josul, R. Kwiram, J. Goy, J. Lapp, M. Yangkosi, Misses C. Griffiths, B. Bradley, L. Korpi, C. Patterson, W. Patterson and B. Patterson.

Miss Lucy Harding Feted

Miss Lucy Harding, a September bride-elect, is being widely feted at a gay round of pre-nuptial showers.

Mrs. R. Saunders entertained at a miscellaneous shower at her home, 1434 Brooke Street, recently in honor of Miss Harding. The bride-elect was presented with a corsage bouquet of gladioli and sweet peas, as was Mrs. L. Howlett, mother of the groom-elect. A decorated umbrella held the many gifts. Invited guests were: Mesdames D. Simpson, J. Fidler, A. Rankin, M. Howlett, H. Mann, G. Dean, W. Smith, L. Dash, K. MacPhail, R. Creed, J. Kirby, A. Grist, P. McInnis, H. Hetherington, R. Cooper, N. L'Heureux, M. Porter and Miss Gladys Howlett.

Mrs. C. Callow and Mrs. R. Creed were co-hostesses at a miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Harding at the home of Mrs. Callow, Bow Road. A gardenia corsage was presented the bride-elect. Gifts were contained in a decorated basket. Invited guests were: Mesdames M. Nicholson, B. Sessions, D. Boniface, J. Brandson, J. Callow, J. Fidler, L. Howlett and W. Crawford.

A double grocery shower was held for Miss Harding and the groom-elect, Mr. Clifford Howlett, at the home of Mrs. M. Howlett, 362 Sylvia Street. Invited guests were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Dunagan, Mr. and Mrs. P. McInnis, Mr. and Mrs. D. Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Fidler, Mr. and Mrs. A. Rankin, Mr. and Mrs. L. Howlett, Miss Gladys Howlett, Miss Marion Pie, Mr. Don Daveau, Mr. George Harding and Mr. Ernie Glass.

Mr. Patrick Birley, Transit Road, is leaving for England with his son, David, who will attend school there for one year. Mr. Birley expects to return to the city within three weeks. David was a former student at the University School.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell have arrived in Victoria from Ottawa to spend their holidays with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McNaughton, and grandson, David, at 600 Dallas Road.

Colwood Plans Country Fair

Sixth annual country fair sponsored by the Colwood Women's Institute and Colwood Community Club will be held at Colwood Hall, Friday from 3 to 10.

A large entry list includes: flowers, fruit, vegetables, home-canning, canning and needlework. There will be junior classes. Judges will be from the provincial department of agriculture and the home service department of the B.C. Electric.

Bingo, ball-throw, a fish pond and other games will be held in connection with a midway.

Highlight of the evening will be a fancy dress parade for children from one to 16 at 7.

Mrs. B. W. Parker will receive entries up to or on Sept. 5. Canadian Bank of Commerce donated a silver tray for children's exhibits.

Lady Mayoress Proves Systematic Packer In Six-Weeks' World Tour

To Live In Saskatchewan City

A home in Saskatoon is the plan of Mrs. James A. Baxter, wife of manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia's main branch, who has been appointed to the Saskatchewan bank. Mrs. Baxter has made her home in this city for the past five years and prior to that lived in Vancouver and Toronto. The couple will leave the city during the third week of this month.

little knots of people which gathered en route.

Wearing a navy blue dress with bolero — an original by Hardy Amies of London, and navy blue accessories, Lady Patricia Lowson took time out for an impromptu interview at City Hall to say:

"British fashions? We think they are terribly smart."

"I've never had a Paris dress in my life. For our sort of life there is nothing like British clothes. They have beautiful cut and lovely materials."

"Traveling tedious? Oh, no. "Packing? I do it myself and am quite good at it, really," she said with a laugh.

For their six and a half week tour around the world, the attractive Lady Mayoress had to bring winter clothes for Australia and summer wear for North America.

She faced the endless round of functions in their honor with enthusiasm.

"In New York I shall be addressing the Pilgrims' dinner. It is an all-male club and the first time a woman has been invited to speak."

Before leaving Victoria Sunday night, Lady Lowson has hopes of touring the city "tally-ho" style.

"I want to go if it can be fitted into the program."

If it is arranged it will be one of the events to relate to her three children on her return. There is Gay, 13½; Melanie, 11, and Ian "nearly seven."

"It will be Ian's birthday next week, but we left his gift before we left England," Lady Lowson smiled.

When asked if she thought people would be very interested in the British-style clothes Princess Elizabeth would wear on the Royal tour in Canada, the Lady Mayoress replied:

"They will be interested in the Princess. She is lovely."

Annette Cole Chose Classic Gown For Wedding Ceremony Yesterday

A veil of illusion net fell in graceful folds from a Juliet cap over the regal bridal ensemble chosen by Miss Annette Cole for her marriage last evening to Donald James McCorquodale in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Rev. J. L. W. McLean read the service.

The bridal gown was created with a satin fitted bodice and a bouffant skirt. The sweetheart neckline was richly framed in silver and white embroidery, and the sheath sleeves came to lily-points.

Mrs. Pearl Paterson, matron of honor, wore a gown of blue nylon, embossed with flowers, and carried a bouquet of pink gladioli.

Gowns, identically-styled, were worn by bridesmaids Misses Lorraine Adams, New Westminster, and Roberta Nielsen, in yellow and blue, respectively. They carried bouquets of gladioli. Little flower girl, Darlene Moore, was gown in blue net over mauve taffeta. She carried summer flowers in the shape of a basket.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cole, Empress Avenue, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L.

McCorquodale, North Park Street. William McCorquodale, Montreal, was his brother's best man, and ushers were George Setterfield and Ronald Mousley.

Mr. Cole gave his daughter in marriage.

A four-tier wedding cake centred the bride's table at a reception in Olde England Inn. B. H. Woolston proposed the toast.

Upon leaving for her honeymoon in Vancouver and Seattle, the bride donned a two-piece grey ensemble with red and white accessories and corsage bouquet of gardenias and red roses.

British Visitors Widely Entertained Here

Being extensively entertained before their departure to England are Mr. and Mrs. S. Upcott, seated in the garden at the home of their hostess, Mrs. C. T. Teasdale, 1060 Hampshire Road. Mr. and Mrs. Upcott make their home in Southampton, England, where Mr. Upcott recently retired as police inspector. Their arrival in Victoria marked the first meeting in 37 years for Mrs. Upcott and her sister, Mrs. Teasdale. En route to their home in England the couple will holiday in Indiana state and later in London, Ont.

A Holiday Week-End!

A splash of holiday fun before the plunge into the new fall season, will be enjoyed by visitors and Victorians alike this week-end.

Many will travel up-island to attend colorful regattas, country fairs or board ships for the mainland to enjoy the bright lights of larger cities.

Others will take the opportunity to enjoy the two-and-a-half or three-day holiday by relaxing in a garden chair and the comforts of home.

On the long stretches of sand on Victoria's many beaches children will build the last of summer dream castles. At lakesides and streams young hopefuls will take along fishing poles and small cans of worms to find their catch of the day.

Each holiday seeker will have his or her own plans for week-end that bids a fond adieu to sunshine-filled summer and welcomes the brisk autumn days.

Dr. And Mrs. Burland Visiting Here From Winnipeg

A happy family reunion occurred this week when Dr. and Mrs. George R. Burland arrived in the city to be the guests of Dr. Burland's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell J. Burland, Central Avenue. The handsome couple from Winnipeg will be in the city a few weeks prior to leaving for Boston, Mass., where Dr. Burland will commence post-graduate work in surgery at Massachusetts General Hospital.

Victoria Family Home After Year In Scotland

Mr. and Mrs. Norris Harwood, with their son, Richard, returned to their Fernwood Road home earlier this week, following a year in Scotland, during which time Mr. Harwood taught as an exchange teacher at Coarbridge Secondary School in Airdrie.

The whole family agree that it was an experience they would not have missed. After leaving here last July they visited relatives in England and saw a good part of the country before settling in their new surroundings.

Mrs. Harwood remarked that from a housewife's viewpoint there were certain hardships new to her. "If it hadn't been for the food parcels sent to us by friends here," she said, "I really would have had a terrible time preparing meals."

As so many other Canadians have remarked, she added, "Despite the hardships in Scotland, you never heard a word of complaint. They are severely rationed, but make the most of what they are allowed. The friends we made often entertained for us, which really meant careful planning on the part of the hosts."

The Harwoods went through one of the worst winters in years during their stay. "Central heating was something else we took for granted in Canada," Mr. Harwood commented. "We had no idea it made such a difference."

The visitors soon discovered that exchange teachers are popular there. They were invited to social functions in Glasgow on several occasions, met the civic heads and other people of prominence.

A garden party at Buckingham Palace was also included in the activities of Mr. and Mrs. Harwood.

During their stay in Scotland they were surprised to find kilts not worn except on very special occasions and that the average Scottish girl could not dance the Highland fling!

As a teacher, Mr. Harwood found that the educational courses were far more strict and that they had not introduced the modern subjects enjoyed in Canadian schools.

"When school was out at 4 o'clock," he said, "They went straight home to study."

Mrs. Harwood, a member of the Women's Auxiliary to the Orphanage, was extremely interested in the Scottish orphanage, Quarrior Home, where over 1,000 children are cared for.

"It is about a half hour drive from Glasgow and is almost a town in itself. They have their own stores, laundry, and everything to make it function."

With this wonderful experience behind them, the Harwoods are now glad to be home. Mr. Harwood will return to Victoria High School where he is a teacher in the Commercial Department.

Children Immortalized On Canvas By Local Artist

To be able to capture in still-life the fleeting expressions that pass over the faces of children, especially your own, is a talent that many would prize.

Mrs. Elizabeth R. Goward, mother of five, a portrait painter of ability, uses her gift in this manner.

When you enter her home, even before you meet the children, you sense their presence just by glancing at the warm young faces portrayed on pastel paper and fondly placed in the rooms.

Mrs. Goward began painting when she was very young.

"In fact," she recalls, "I pestered my family trying to get them to pose for me even before I was of school age."

Through her early school days she was very active in art work and later attended the school of Industrial Arts in Philadelphia where she majored in illustration. Still eager to advance with her paintings she attended night school and later taught at this same school in Philadelphia.

"Before I was married I worked in oils, but since my marriage I find that by working with pastels I can do a picture in one sitting," she explained.

Despite all her duties as a housewife and a mother, Mrs. Goward still manages to do two or three portraits a month. Needless to say they are usually of her children.

Mrs. Goward is not the only artist in her family. Her husband is also accomplished in this line, but instead of portraits he specializes in landscapes.

This provides his wife with another outlet for her artistic inclinations. From his paintings she makes lineoleums which also take their place in the home. This summer, children attending the Cadboro Bay playground group benefited by her knowledge when she took an active part with other mothers in this district in supervising their activities.

Right now most of her time is occupied with her family, but when they are older Mrs. Goward will once again branch out into the field that she loves.

Vivacious Viennese Opera Star New Canadian Enthusiastic Over Life In 'Adopted' Country

By AUDREY ST. DENYS JOHNSON

Rosel is Mrs. E. M. Goldsmith now. A Canadian citizen, facing the future with new hope and happiness. But a few years ago she was Madame Rosel Gerstel, fugitive from the horrors of Nazi and Japanese occupations; leaving behind the graves of all but one of her entire family.

And a few years before that, she was Rosel Albach, bright, beautiful star of the Viennese light opera and concert stage.

We talked to her this week while she was holidaying at Brenta Lodge with her Canadian-English second husband, a teenage stepson, and her friend from the past, Trudie Lubitsch, who had come from New York to vacation with her.

We found the golden-haired, brown-eyed singer warm, lovely, vivacious. This was her first visit to the Island from her Vancouver home, and while she chatted about the beauties of the resort, her husband talked about Rosel.

Presently we drew her into reminiscence and gradually a story emerged. A story of triumph, tragedy, courage; a story of what music meant to a lot of people at a time and in a place of great tribulation.

MUSIC, FAMILY TRADITION
"Music was our whole life," Rosel Goldsmith says in her charmingly accented English. Her father was a well-known Viennese baritone, also a pianist and violinist. Her elder brother had a brilliant career ahead of him as concert pianist, having won many European awards, including the coveted Liszt prize.

One gathers the impression as Mrs. Goldsmith talks, that members of her family greatly outshone her own accomplishments. Her eyes glow and her voice thrills with pride as she speaks of her brother's performance of Brahms and Chopin, or her only surviving sister's career as an Italian opera singer.

"My father wished me to go into grand opera like Ella, but I say no! I like to laugh when I sing, to be gay. Not for me the tragedy!" This, with a dramatic gesture.

Before she was 18, her soprano voice was heard in light opera and in a very few years she was singing the leading roles in "Fledermaus," "Rosenkavalier," "Gypsy Baron" and many more of a considerable repertoire.

An operatic engagement in Berlin brought about her marriage to Dr. Gerstel and the meeting with Trudie Lubitsch, a cousin of Rosel's director, Ernst Lubitsch.

Back in Vienna, she continued to win acclaim until her ascending star was suddenly eclipsed by the murderous shadow of Hitler.

The family was decimated. A sister died in one of the infamous gas chambers. Others perished in mysterious ways. Rosel obtained the release of her husband and brother through an undertaking to leave the country. They took refuge in the only haven immediately available to them—the most cosmopolitan city in the world—Shanghai.

CHINESE WELCOMED MUSIC
Here, she tells us, were hundreds of similar exiles. Musicians, painters, actors; learned men and women from many walks of life, torn up by the roots and flung into this culture-hungry pot of multiple brews.

For a brief period, Shanghai rivalled New York and London. The Chinese population reached eagerly into the pot and helped themselves to everything they found. Music, languages, science, art. They gobbled them all voraciously.

"They are a very musical people and have wonderful voices," she told us. "Imagine me singing Mozart—duets from 'Don Giovanni' and 'Marriage of Figaro.' It is in the Y.M.C.A. We sing in Italian and my partner is a fine Chinese baritone!"

In Shanghai, the Viennese soprano had her first experience of singing a role in English. The opera was "Lilac Time." The cast was all English but there were Chinese musicians in the orchestra. Eleven different nationalities were represented in the audience, she recalls.

When war started in the Pacific and the Japanese came to Shanghai, there were concentration camps again and further separations of friends and relatives. There was, however, one mitigating factor. The Japanese war lord in question loved music and declared that culture must go forward.

COMFORT TO MANY
So Rosel Albach Gerstel was allowed the solace of her music; and what was still more important to this spirited woman, she was allowed to bring that solace to others.

During all this period she kept the shadows at bay with song. She sang through the nights and days of fear, grief, oppression and deprivation. She sang for the Red Cross, the British War Fund and for the G.I.s.

Then the final blow came in the deaths of her husband and brother. Alone now, she clung only to the dream they had had for so long, of reaching the United States; specifically, New York.

Finally, her own great gifts and generosity brought friends to her aid. The Canadian consul made it possible for her to come to Canada to wait admission to the States.

"He knew of me because he had heard me sing," she says with charming naivete. "So my music helped me there too!"

Music has been a common language in which she has been able to converse freely wherever she has gone. In Vancouver, whence she had come from San Francisco, music turned cupid when she met Mr. Goldsmith who was doing work with European refugees. He proposed in Stanley Park on the way to a Theatre Under the Stars performance. But he had to follow her to Montreal before he persuaded her to say yes.

She has been married to her second husband for two years now, and she says as a Canadian wife she has learned a great deal. Some difficult things and some simple. Like the difference between apple pie and apfelstreudel.

"Tell us about apfelstreudel," we coaxed. "It always sounds so delicious!"

"It is something like apple pie only much more trouble," she replied and launched into a dramatized description of how the delicacy is made.

She taught the Chinese to make it, she confides. And then there are apricot dumplings. They sounded marvellous. But what of the figure? We asked self-consciously.

"Ah. Think of it like this," Mrs. Goldsmith says with a mischievous twinkle. "You look at the goodie for a minute. You have it in your mouth for half a minute; in your stomach perhaps half a day. On your hips for ever! Keep that in mind and you are not tempted!"

We guaranteed to try her remedy, rather than her recipe. Later, we heard Rosel Goldsmith sing at the home of Mrs. Joseph Rose on Howe Street. The strong, rich-tempered voice is used with brilliance and vitality. It conveys true sentiment that comes from the heart. Mrs. Goldsmith lives her music with every nerve and fibre of her being.

With her was her sister, Madame Ella Hess, who has been a house guest of Mrs. Rose during the past week.

Madame Hess is reunited with her sister in Vancouver and as a true exponent of the Italian bel canto, is teaching there. Mrs. Goldsmith works with her, declaring that she will never stop training and studying until she is too old to sing.

B.C. HAS RARE TALENT
She shares with Madame Hess, the opinion that the Canadian west has wonderful vocal talent and will give the world some first-rate singers. She has enjoyed Theatre Under the Stars, particularly the ballet.

"It is wonderful! So fine and fresh. They have the KNOW!" So far, in this country, her only professional appearance has been on TV, from Station KPIX, San Francisco. This was so successful that she has been asked to return. But the States is no longer a Mecca to Mrs. Goldsmith. Two weeks ago she became a full-fledged Canadian citizen, and that is her pride and joy.

Rosel Albach Gerstel has lost her native land, her family, her promising career. But as Rosel Goldsmith she looks forward with confidence and high hopes, to the carving of a new career in her adopted land.

But the thing that makes her eyes shine with happiness, is the idea of giving all she can of her abundant gifts, to the country that has welcomed and received her without hesitation and with so much warmth.

Wedding Last Evening

Standards of multi-colored summer flowers decorated Metropolitan United Church last evening for the ceremony which united in marriage Marjorie Phyllis Robinson and Ronald Carl Kellington, R.C.N.

Dr. A. E. Whitehouse heard the nuptial vows of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Robinson, Townley Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Kellington, Estevan, Sask., who were here for the occasion.

E. Holloway played traditional organ music as the bride walked up the aisle on the arm of her father, and Del Rogers sang "O Promise Me" during the signing of the register.

Princess lines highlighted the wedding gown of shimmering white satin. The graceful skirt fell slightly on train and her three-quarter-length veil of illusion net was caught in a halo of

net. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, gift of the groom, and she carried a bouquet of red roses and sweet peas.

Mrs. Delores Robinson, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She chose a gown of mauve moire taffeta complemented by a bouquet of yellow carnations and mauve sweet peas.

Reg Robinson, brother of the bride, was best man, and ushers were Allan Schofield and Cliff Robinson, also a brother of the bride.

Summer flowers decorated the bride's parents' home for the reception. The three-tier wedding cake was topped by a miniature bride and groom.

A corsage bouquet of red roses and white carnations added to the grey tulle with navy accessories worn by the bride as they departed on a honeymoon in Estevan and Edmonton.

Plan Holiday Week-End At Up-Island Regatta

Over the week-end sleek crafts will slip into position in the waters off the Government Wharf at Cowichan Bay in readiness for the Labor Day regatta. Junior members of Royal Victoria Yacht Club will, along with their seniors, take an active part in the success of the event. Entries are expected from many points in the Pacific northwest of Canada and the United States. Here, Mary Jane Miles discusses last-minute plans with Dennis Roberts, Dennis Coverdale, Colin Baker, junior commodore; Ken Gibbard, a member of the junior committee; Dave Paterson and Art Speed.

Mabel's Pride And Joy
Not Sam, But New Polisher!

By PENNY SAVER

"How about dropping over this evening," says good friend Mabel during the course of a telephone conversation yesterday morning. Says she, "I'm going to polish the dining room floor!"

"This is exciting?" says I. "Why not," she says. "How often have you seen a floor polisher . . . I mean a mechanical one . . . in action, that you can be so fussy about what is exciting and what is not."

"No need to get your laces in a knot," says I. "If it's a new polisher you want me to see, alright, I'll be over early."

Early it was, when I arrived at Mabel's spanking-clean home. After Mabel had ushered me to a chair, stepping carefully as I went so that I wouldn't tread on a section of parts spread out on the floor, Mabel started with the sing-song on her latest prized possession.

I couldn't, after an hour's steady jabbering, tell my friend I was quite convinced she and Sam had done the wise thing when they purchased the polisher.

I couldn't tell her, because the little woman talked all through tea time, and was still spouting steam as I bade her good evening at the front door.

She told me the electric polisher was simple enough for her Junior to use . . . but woe betide him, if ever he puts a finger to it. Evidently the machine doesn't have a tendency to "run away" for the two large brushes rotate in opposite directions, one exactly counter balances the other.

As the brushes spin around, they fluff out making it easy to polish these hard-to-get corners and close to the baseboards, heavy furniture and rugs.

At one point in the lecture, I inquired as to weight of the polisher. Says Mabel: "Why I'm 125 and not a pound more and you know it . . . oh! You mean the floor polisher. A mere 16 pounds it is, and not heavy at all, at all, to pack about the house."

Not only did Mabel have two brushes, but buffing pads yet! The lamb's wool buffing pads snap on to brushes to add the final high gloss finish.

Course, all this convenience for Mabel happened to ring a bell somewhere with me. Seems, I've heard her hubby, Sam, by name, pull a few sad stories each time he was asked to make with a gleaming floor. I wouldn't like to say, but I'd care to bet this new household item is serving two purposes.

If Mabel starts selling tickets to the neighbors for a three-times-a-day show, I'll not be a surprised Penny! She's going to get her $64.50's worth, and then some!

MOCCASINS? NOT LIKELY!

Co-Ed Clothes, Gay, Pert
Wearable, Buyers Advise

TORONTO (CP) — College girls, traditionally leaders in casual styles, are practical about what they wear. At least, Canadian co-eds are.

Toronto department store buyers have stocked their college shops with clothes that are gay and pretty, but definitely wearable.

Corduroy is queen of the clothes racks this year, fashion observers said. The fabric, used in suits, skirts, dresses and jackets, and in plain, embroidered and even tweed finishes.

Velvet appears to be running a close second in dresses, skirts and ensembles while classic tartans and grey flannel shared the spotlight on tailored suits.

The vogue for separates has caught on to such an extent with the college crowd that even some dance dresses have interchangeable skirts and tops.

One typical co-ed likes saddle shoes for classes and "roaming around," Cuban heels for dress-up occasions.

Moccasins? She said she "wouldn't be caught dead in them."

Women's Part
In Elections

Women play a strong part, particularly in the local field, in helping the British Labor Party at elections. Mrs. G. Wallbank, of Clitheroe, Lancs., told a meeting of C.C.F. women of Greater Victoria in Woodsworth Hall this week.

A past president of the women's section of the British Labor Party in the Lancashire district, Miss Wallbank said women members kept a close watch on conditions affecting the home.

She emphasized the "vast improvement in social services in Britain" today as compared with the time when she was a girl.

The meeting also heard a talk from Miss G. Patterson, veteran member of the C.C.F. in Calgary. She stressed the need for more women to take an active part in the affairs of the province.

Mrs. K. Mitchell, wife of the C.C.F. candidate in Esquimalt, spoke, as did Mrs. J. M. Thomas and Mrs. R. Burton. Mrs. May Campbell introduced the speakers and tea was served by Mrs. A. Crow and Mrs. F. Henderson.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It's Easier To Increase
Bust Than To Reduce It

Aunt Mary went to town. But her bust was upside down. Those lines just occurred to me because I believe that is the only question about the bustline which has not been asked me; how to correct an upside down bust.

Don't ask me, because I would not know which is top and which is bottom. It really does seem to me that no woman is satisfied with the size of her bust. Small-busted women long for a large measurement while full-busted women wish to reduce. Of course of the breasts. Strenuous massage of the busts would be dangerous. We therefore have only the theory of stretching left.

There are many exercises which are supposed to reduce the bust but I have found only two in my experience which have been helpful. I have given these before, but here goes:

Stand erect and make large circles with the arms, pulling back hard on the side-to-side downward movement. Do this 40 times in the morning and 40 times before retiring.

Another: Stand tall. Raise the arms sideways shoulder height, with the palms facing forward. Keep the arms at the same level as you pull back hard. Relax. Repeat.

If your problem is bust development rather than bust reduction, and you want help, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 7, "Round Shoulders—Flat Bust? Reverse!" Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Here is one of two helpful bust reducing exercises.

there is a happy medium we all want.

The question of filling out the bustline is easier than the one of reduction. Special exercises can fill out the pectoral muscles so that they do lift and increase the bust measurements.

STRETCHING REDUCES

When we lose weight the bust becomes smaller. Therefore, if you are overweight a general loss in pounds will decrease the size

Meat-Wise Peppers

Green peppers take so naturally to stuffing, sometimes we neglect their many other talents. Pretty as they are whole, satiny and green as a St. Patrick's Day necktie, they're just as pretty sliced into little scalloped rings for garnishing or salads. Place two such rings on each serving of a cheese rabbit. Tasty as well as handsome.

Or when you're at a loss for a vegetable to serve with fish, remove the seeds from green peppers and slice. Now fry in hot fat to which a small slice of garlic has been added. Remove the garlic before serving.

If veal is on the horizon for dinner soon, add strips of green pepper and diced onion when the cutlets are brown on both sides. Then add a little water and simmer about 30 minutes. Or perhaps ham's been to your house and gone except for a few lingering pieces. Stretch them to make a meal (and a hearty one).

Ordinary biscuit dough can be used so many ways. Roll it out thin into a rectangle and spread with a mixture of chopped ripe olives and mayonnaise seasoned with horse-radish. Roll and slice as for jelly roll. Bake the pin-wheels in a hot oven either on a cookie sheet or on top a meat pie in place of its regular topping.

Crab meat, shrimp, lobster and hard-cooked eggs, chopped and done in a Newburg sauce, set up a patty no end.

Buttons In Fashion News
Have Interesting Past

This year buttons are once again back in the fashion news, but from the prehistoric bone pin to the present day plastic, buttons have always had an interesting story.

For thousands of years, plain thorn, bone, wood and ivory pins were used to fasten clothes together. It wasn't until 6000 B.C. that man discovered metal, and some fashion-conscious woman discovered that pins could be worn for decoration as well as for more practical reasons.

Brooches and pins, some with rare and costly jewel settings, remained the only clothes fasteners until the Middle Ages. (The phrase "Pin Money" originated because husbands gave their wives an allowance to purchase this luxury item).

Finally, sometime in the 14th century, a German goldsmith discovered that cloth, jewels and other materials could be mounted on buttons, and we have them till this day.

One button-custom that has endured through the years is that of putting buttons on men's sleeves. It is said that Frederick the Great originated this when he had buttons sewn on his soldiers' jackets to cure their distressing habit of using their sleeves as handkerchiefs.

Another interesting custom used in the past was that of giving buttons as gifts. Henry the Eighth's betrothal present to the ill-fated Anne of Cleves was a set of "great buttons of diamonds, rubies and Oriental pearls." And at the court of Louis the Fourteenth, buttons set with priceless gems were high fashion.

Buttons seem to be more popular than ever this year. Sewing centre experts, women who sew are choosing a wide variety of buttons for trimming, because buttons are still one of the easiest ways of adding a distinctive and decorative touch to a home-sewn garment. And the latest word from Paris is that designers are using buttons on everything: hats, shoes and gloves as well as on dresses and suits.

A bride, intent upon furnishing her kitchen efficiently and inexpensively, will do well to concentrate upon a few general-use pots and pans of lasting quality. It's better to have three good cooking utensils than a cupboard full of make-do ones. It's best to steer clear of special, one-purpose pans until budget and storage space make it feasible.

Aluminum Process Done On The Spot

By HARRY YOUNG, Times Business Editor

MONTREAL—The most interesting part of the Alcan operations in the Saguenay district of Quebec is that except for the mining of the raw ore—bauxite—the whole process of aluminum development is done on the spot.

The B.C. press party of which I have been a member has just completed the full circuit of this remarkable development. We have not only seen the great harnessing of the rivers Saguenay and Peribonka which provide the electricity required, but we also saw the unloading of the raw bauxite which comes into an Alcan sea terminal at Port Alfred.

This port, which is navigable for only seven months in the year, handles among other commodities the 2,000,000 tons of bauxite used by Alcan every year at its Arvida plant.

This bauxite feels like a hard damp clay with a comparatively wide color range from a pale fragile rose pink to a brick red of somewhat fierce tone. Most of this bauxite comes from British Guiana.

MINED IN GREENLAND
The other metal which is used largely in the manufacture of aluminum is cryolite, known to exist only in Greenland, where it is mined extensively by Alcan.

The operation of turning bauxite into alumina is the first big process undertaken at the mile-and-a-half-long Arvida works, which are the nerve centre of the whole operation.

The alumina is extracted by a process of precipitation in which a sticky pink fluid is agitated in huge vats.

From this comes the white powder that is alumina and which is celebrated not only for making aluminum but is also said to be a stomachic sedative of some popular appeal. It tastes but little and is gritty on the tongue.

I describe this because it is the white alumina powder with which British Columbia will be come acquainted. The raw pink-colored bauxite will be pre-treated in Jamaica so that the "raw" material so far as Kitimat is concerned will be the powdery alumina.

The reason for this is that it takes two tons of bauxite to make one ton of alumina, and thus the shipping space required for Kitimat imports will be halved.

It also means that the ore processing part of the Arvida plant will not be required at Kitimat.

The alumina as it is unloaded from the Kitimat docks will be ready for placing in the pot lines in which it is electrically heated into glistening aluminum fluid. The fluid is then siphoned out of the pots and run into the moulds which take the shape of ingots, pigs or bars.

HAVE TO SEE IT
This may not sound a very long or complicated process for such a development as Kitimat, but the vastness of the requirements have to be seen to be realized.

For instance the row of transformers—an avenue of over 1,000 yards—which give the electrical energy to the Arvida pot lines—constitute the world's greatest concentration of electrical power in one spot.

Working in the pot room which will be a major source of employment at Kitimat is not perhaps the most pleasant of jobs but it is not particularly laborious, and is regarded as quite a cinch in the winter when the Arvida temperature outside drops occasionally as low as 30 below.

But in the summer conditions under which we observed the scene it was rather too warm to be comfortable. In view of the heat the pot room workers do one hour on and one hour off in their eight hours' stint.

The man who has the toughest job, in the opinion of the operatives with whom I spoke, is the fellow who lifts the ingots out of the molds. But even he is swinging weights of rather less than 50 pounds.

The other important point is that the processing of aluminum has not so far as is known brought any serious industrial disease in its train. The community at Arvida is singularly healthy and in point of fertility is top ranking in all Canada. Of its 11,000 population over 5,000 are of school age.

Copper Firm Strike End Raises Hopes

Settling Kennecott May Aid National

WASHINGTON (AP)—Settlement of the strike at Kennecott Copper Corporation, producer of 35 per cent of the country's copper, may have paved the way for an early end of the country-wide shutdown which threatened to slow up the defense program.

Kennecott and union leaders reached an agreement yesterday after President Truman called for Federal action to end the strike.

Negotiations behind the scenes were started at once with the three other major producers. There were hopeful signs that by Monday, at least, settlements would follow at the far-flung operations of Phelps-Dodge Corp., American Smelting and Refining Co., and Anaconda Copper Co.

Kennecott granted a 15-cent "package" wage raise to its more than 9,000 workers in Utah, Nevada and New Mexico. Kennecott agreed earlier to set up a pension system which it estimated would add another 4½ cents to the cost of the raise.

WITHOUT FANFARE
While the secret bargaining talks with the Independent Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union, and the A.F.L. and railroad unions involved went on without fanfare, the President's board of inquiry continued checking into the facts in the dispute.

As soon as the board reports on those facts, the President may ask Attorney General J. Howard McGrath to seek a court injunction to force the balance of the 58,000 idle workers to return to the lead, zinc and copper workings.

UNTIL TUESDAY
President Truman cannot, under the Taft-Hartley Labor Act, which he invoked Thursday night, seek an injunction until the board of inquiry has completed its study. He gave the board until Tuesday to do that.

The board, after hearing from defense agencies last night on the cost of the mobilization program in ores and by-products of the critical strikebound industry, opens hearings this morning.

The 15-cent hourly increase by Kennecott includes an eight-cent wage boost to all workers and another seven cents broke up the job reclassification. Probably most of the seven cents will go to the craft unions of experienced workers.

The alumina as it is unloaded from the Kitimat docks will be ready for placing in the pot lines in which it is electrically heated into glistening aluminum fluid. The fluid is then siphoned out of the pots and run into the moulds which take the shape of ingots, pigs or bars.

Stock Index Moves Briskly—Commodity Index Declines Again

Associated Press average of 60 stocks went ahead briskly this week, closing at 97.6 from 96.1 a week ago. Commodity index declined for the 18th straight week, closing yesterday at 189.9, lowest since Oct. 30. A week ago, index stood at 190.8. (AP wirephoto chart.)

Opinions Differ On High Prices

By DICK BAIDEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Did this week's sharp upswing at Toronto, Montreal and New York stock markets herald another long bull market, or was it a warning of coming weakness?

Observers in three centres divided on this question as market prices soared to record highs.

In Toronto, the exchange's index of 20 selected issues broke its record five times in as many days as it climbed 7.71 points. The index now stands at 346.80, highest since it was established in 1934. The weekly gain was the greatest since the week of May 26 to June 1.

Montreal shared the advance as the industrial average broke new ground several times during the week.

BULL MONTH
As the month ended in New York, the industrial component of the Dow Jones average closed higher than at any time in the last two decades as August continued its tradition as a bull month.

American opinion tended to discount the influence of world conditions. The Wall Street Journal noted that, in general, Wall Street traders did not participate in the advance. It concluded that since short-term traders were not active while long-term "portfolio" buyers were taking stocks out of circulation, the tendency was to establish a strong technical background. This background, said the Journal, "will take something quite dynamic to shake."

The other side of the picture was given by observers who pointed out that an upswing was to be expected at this time of the year. They added that short positions were at record highs indicating that investors think the market is extended to its limit, if not more.

The Toronto market made its biggest jump Tuesday since April 12. Early trading indicated that prices might dip but strong support appeared about mid-session and carried the index almost four points higher. Montreal industrials caught some of Toronto's momentum and climbed almost three points. Papers eased.

Prices leveled off in Toronto yesterday as investors consolidated their position before the long Labor Day week-end. Papers slipped moderately in Montreal as industrials developed little trend.

The New York market Monday opened weakly as the list slid lower in the slowest trading in a month and a half.

An upward swing started Tuesday and accelerated Wednesday as rails, steels and copper came to life. The trend continued Thursday as rails and utilities sparked the advance.

The market advanced moderately yesterday under a strong pull from a small group of individual issues and a few major divisions, principally coppers and steels.

There is no doubt that the present arrangements are uneconomic and inefficient, and that this produce passes through too many hands after leaving the grower and before reaching the housewife.

Dalton said the government-sponsored auctions are an experiment. The government believes that "growers will get prices at least as good as they get now... and that the housewife will get better and fresher supplies at lower cost."

SUMMARY FOR WEEK REFLECTS STIMULATED MARKET ACTIVITY

The usual busy market at this time of year sent stock indices soaring to new highs during the week.

Index of industrials at all three major markets—Toronto, Montreal and New York—were at a new peak for the year. In many cases figures were the highest in many years.

At Toronto, western oils were at a new high on the brisk market.

Hip-Hip-Hooray

One day I am going to kick over the traces, 'cause I can't work in the garden while showing my braces. "You look just A-W-F-U-L," that from I am dealt, "be a good boy... go put on a belt."

Our daughters, too, partly in mirth, had to stick in their... "And that shirt you wear is a total loss; it always make Mummy... good & cross."

I stood very close to their 3 faces. "And just WHAT is wrong with wearing braces?" "Well, they look just terrible, that's what they do," sackety-yak... what this hallelaloo. "O.K..." as they continued to scoff, "I'll go upstairs & take them off."

Half way up.

THE ROOF FELL IN

UNION CITY, N.J. (AP)—Burlesque patrons in the second balcony of the Hudson Theatre last night stamped their feet and shouted "take it off."

And off it came—the plaster from the ceiling—40 square feet of it.

Two women in the balcony were injured.

Water Restriction In Oak Bay Over

Longest period of water restriction in Oak Bay's history ended this week, with residents now free to water any hour, any day, A. S. G. Musgrave, municipal engineer, said today.

Restrictions went on June 21, when occupants of odd-numbered houses watered one day and even-numbered the next.

"Heavy water consumption usually tapers off about this time," Mr. Musgrave said, explaining the move.

"However, we usually lift restrictions ten days to two weeks earlier than we did this year," he added.

Pedestrian Pays And Parks To Chat

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—A woman leaned against a parking meter, one foot on the curb, the other in the street, chatting with a friend.

"You're blocking traffic," called out a motorist, eyeing the parking space.

Calmly the woman opened her handbag, took out a penny, dropped it in the parking meter slot and defiantly resumed her curbside conversation.

DREADED GUERRILLA SLAIN

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—Ting Fook, dreaded guerrilla known as the "Terror Taiping," was killed yesterday by British soldiers.

Ting, who had a price of $3,000 on his head, was political commissar of Taiping and a member of the Malayan Communist party.

Cyclist Is Injured In Crash With Car

Cyclist Don Wilson, 82 San Jose Avenue, was slightly injured Friday night when he was knocked from his bike after he had been in collision with the rear of a car driven by G. H. Warwick, 1424 Edgeware Road, police said. Warwick had stopped for a red light on Blanshard Street.
